LET'S BE FRIENDS MR. K TELLS U.S.

LONDON (Reuters)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev has sent a message to United States Vice-President Nixon declaring that the Soviet people and government are unanimous in their sincere desire to establish friendly relations with the United States just as with all other countries, the Soviet news agency Tass said today.

The Russian Premier's message was in reply to one from Nixon expressing thanks in connection with the vice-president's Moscow visit.

"I share the hope that such visits and meetings, accompanied by friendly and sincere exchanges of views, will help to establish better relations between our two countries," Khrushchev said.

"I hope that further exchange of visits by the top leaders of our two countries will be even more fruitful as regards the elimination of international frictions and the resolute consolidation of peace in the interests of all nations."

Ike Plans Wide European Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today broadened plans for his trip to Western Europe to include talks with Italian Prime Minister Antonio Segni and two top officials of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Separate meetings with the NATO officials and the Italian prime minister will take place in Paris after Eisenhower ends conferences with French President Charles de Gaulle.

It was announced Friday that Eisenhower will go to London on Aug. 28 for talks with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, and then to Paris Sept. 2 for the meeting with de Gaulle.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower will confer with Joseph M. A. H. Luns, Netherlands foreign affairs minister and president of the NATO council, and with Paul-Henri Spaak, NATO secretary general.

DISCUSS PROBLEMS

Hagerty followed this with a second announcement that a Eisenhower will meet with the Italian prime minister for discussions on world problems of mutual interest.

Segni also will visit the United States Sept. 30, Hagerty said.

Eisenhower's trip to Western Europe is preliminary to his talks in Washington with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, beginning Sept. 15.

The United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union (Ind.) announced the return to work late Friday night, only a few weeks before the fishing season is due to pass its peak.

Members of the union and the Native Brotherhood of B.C. representing Indian fishermen, voted overwhelmingly in favor of accepting a final wage-price offer by the Fisheries Association of B.C.

Homer Stevens, secretary of the UFAWU, said salmon fishermen can leave for the grounds anytime although they may not fish until 6 p.m. Sunday. Shoreworkers in cannerys and tendermen—the workers who shuttle the fish from the boats to the plants ashore—can go back to work as soon as they are called.

They were on their way home from a visit with Mrs. Tandy's mother. Tandy stopped the car and got out to put out the fire, telling his wife to call the fire department.

She drove to a nearby parking lot. As she turned to look back, the six tons of explosive in another truck blew up with a roar.

FINAL EFFORT

Mr. Stevens said the fishermen voted 84.9 per cent in favor of the settlement based on a two-year contract which gives them minimum prices slightly higher than those paid last year.

The strike began July 25 when the fishermen went on strike for higher prices. The tendermen and shoreworkers followed four days later in support of demands for higher wages.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Let the warmth of summer days remind us. O Lord, of the constant warmth of Thy love for all men everywhere. Forgive us that we are so narrow in our affections, blinded as we are by custom and pride. Grant us, we pray, such reality in worship that we may enter more fully into the freedom of the Kingdom of God, where all who love Thee become one family in faith through Thy Son, Jesus Christ, in whose name we pray. Amen.

ROYAL VISITOR

Arriving in Victoria this afternoon for four-day stay at Government House is 22-year-old Princess Alexandra, daughter of the Duchess of Kent and a cousin of the Queen. The Princess left London airport in a Comet jet airliner this morning for a flight to Goose Bay, Labrador, and across Canada to Vancouver where she was to board an RCAF plane for Victoria. (See story on page 15.)

COLOR BAR BOYCOTT THREAT

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—One of the top segregationist leaders today threatened a "buyer's strike" against downtown merchants if high school integration comes as scheduled Wednesday.

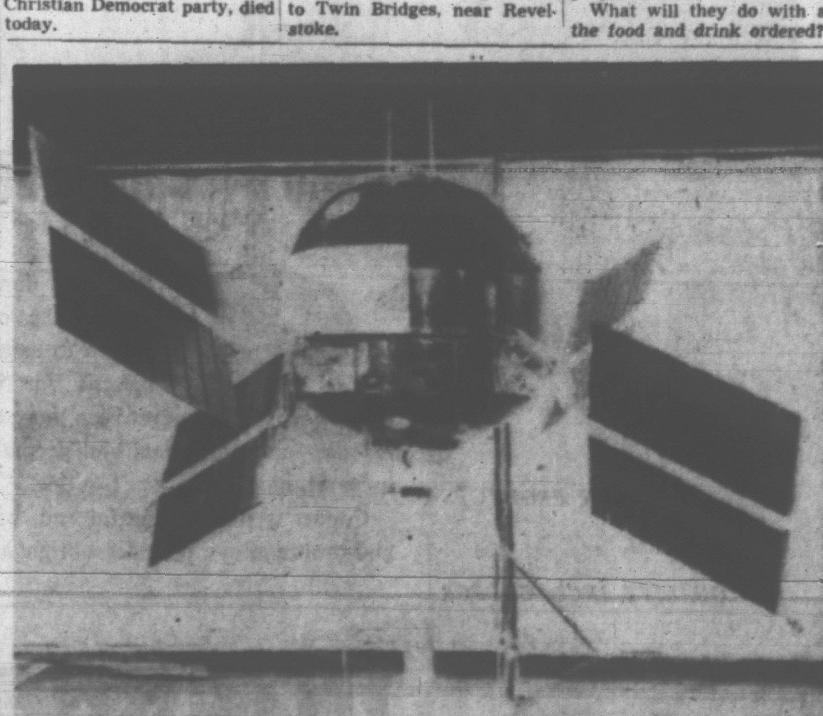

"If one Negro even attempts to attend a white high school," said Amis Guthridge, "we are calling on the people of every school district in Arkansas to stage a buyer's strike against Little Rock Main Street merchants, and against every firm that employs even one Negro."

Guthridge, lawyer for the segregationist Capital Citizens Council, also said his organization planned other actions in connection with integration but couldn't disclose them.

Guthridge charged the merchants of Main Street and Little Rock Negroes "are working as a team to make the parents of Little Rock submit to integration regardless of their own or their children's feelings."

THIS WORLD OF OURS*People and Things

ROCKFORD, Ill.—Some weird aircraft, born of the do-it-yourself impulse, are on show in this city.

They are aircraft built in barns, basements and garages by people with time and money to spend and an irresistible urge to put something different in the sky.

One has four wings, another is powered with an automobile engine. One tiny bi-plane, The Flea, is 15 feet long. A Detroit man flew his creation half way here and drove the rest of the distance on the highways.

The strange things began flying and driving in earlier this week with the opening of the annual convention of the Experimental Aircraft Association whose 50,000 members must rebuild conventional aircraft or start from scratch to qualify for membership.

NEW CANAAN, Conn.—The daughter of the king of swing made her musical debut here Friday playing the piano in a concert with her father, Rachael Goodman, 16-year-old daughter of clarinetist Benny Goodman, played a Mozart trio with her father and David Dawson, violinist of the Berklee String Quartet.

CASPER, Wyo.—Stories of lions roaming near here have brought trouble to a taxidermist.

Lam A. Oler, owner of a downtown shop, reported that a stuffed mountain lion in his window had been shot with a .22-calibre rifle—right through the glass.

LONDON—Julie Andrews, who has been "My Fair Lady" to playgoers in New York and London for the past 3½ years, takes her last bow in the American musical tonight.

Miss Andrews will turn it over to Anne Rogers and will go into rehearsal for "Jennie Kissed Me," an American musical based on the legend of King Arthur.

ROSWELL, N.M.—The fire alarm rang and all the traffic lights in Roswell began blinking yellow, as in all emergencies.

Fire Chief George Daniels jumped in his new station wagon and took off.

Police Chief L. O. Thompson hopped in a squad car and sped away.

They met abruptly at a downtown intersection.

Daniels suffered hospital treatment for head cuts and pavement burns. Thompson suffered cuts and bruises. The fire was out.

The conference produced very little news, but it gave 60 photographers previously avoided by the sweethearts a chance to shoot to their hearts' content.

The swarm of photographers completely blocked the main highway through Sogne, ignoring the honking horns of impatient motorists.

Wage increases this year will be retroactive to April 16 and other adjustments will be effective the date of signing.

The union originally sought a one-year agreement boosting sockeye prices—the main issue for the fishermen—to 32 cents, increasing shoreworkers' rates by 20 cents over the present basic rate which ranges from $1.32 to $1.60 an hour, and giving tendermen a one-quarter-cent-a-pound bonus on all fish carried. Tendermen now earn from $315 to $390 monthly.

The fishing industry is British Columbia's second largest. The largest industry—lumber—has been tied up for five weeks by a strike of 27,000 coast workers who walked out in support of demands for a 20-cent increase in the hourly wage of $1.72.

'HOT' PICKET AT ALBERNI

VANCOUVER (CP)—The United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (Ind.) has set up an information picket line around a fish boat which docked today at Port Alberni carrying salmon caught during the fishermen's strike.

A union spokesman here said the troller Svalbard I was reported to have left for the fishing grounds during the strike before being cleared by the union to do so. The union said it was an unfair catch.

"The next thing I knew, I came to about a hundred feet away. The blast had hurled me and the police car against a wall... there was a towering ball of flame as high as I could see."

Fund to Fight Labor Law Launched By Mine Union

(From CP Dispatches)

TRAIL—Members of locals of the United Mine Mill and Smelter Workers Union (Ind.) will be asked to contribute cash assistance to organized labor's fight against the B.C. Trade Unions Act, a spokesman said Friday.

Mine-mill western vice-president, Harvey Murphy, said his co-ordinating council of locals in Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company operations has made certain recommendations on the matter.

They ask that each member contribute $1 immediately to a fund set up by the B.C. Federation of Labor CLC and that each member contribute a 10-cent-a-month levy toward the fund.

RICHMOND—Archie Grant

has laid aside his shotgun and his pregnant wife is no longer sitting outdoors to protect the property from a pipeline crew. A truce has been effected in the dispute between the Grants and the B.C. Electric Company and work began Thursday on a lot owned by the Grants.

Mrs. Grant, expecting her fourth child this month, and her husband had asked $6,000 for the 1½ acre plot on which they had planned to build a new home next year.

B.C. Electric offered $4,000. The price is expected to be settled by an arbitrator.

Guessing Game Sweeps Britain

BALMORAL, Scotland (CP)—The Queen, expecting her third child, vacationed with her family today at Balmoral Castle.

Behind the grey walls of the castle built by Queen Victoria in 1854, the Queen was effectively screened from the excitement let loose by the impending royal birth.

By long custom, royal vacations at Balmoral are held in the strictest privacy. And with her release from public engagements the Queen now is free to enjoy the seclusion of the occasion.

Canadian Title Considered Likely

"Well," exclaimed The Daily Sketch, "What lovely news."

"Feeling fine!" declared The Daily Express.

"Delighted M'm," said The Daily Mail.

Inevitably, the big guessing game started on the likely name of the new baby. Pick of the papers was George, Albert, James or Andrew for a boy and Mary, Elizabeth, Victoria or Charlotte for a girl.

The News Chronicle suggested that "if the new baby is a boy he is likely to be given a Commonwealth title when he reaches 21, as a demonstration of the Royal Family's belief in the "Commonwealth family."

Canada, as senior Commonwealth nation, would presumably be chosen to give the geographical source—the place-name—of the title.

"It might, for example, be Duke of Ottawa."

Balmoral is one of the Royal Family's private residences and the summer holiday here is a fixture in the royal annual round.

Salmon Fishing and Family Picnics

There are rich catches of salmon to be had from the tumbling streams and the Queen is a keen fisherwoman. On Aug. 12 grouse shooting starts.

There will be family picnics and Sunday morning services at the lovely village church at Craithie.

The arrival of a baby—even if only second or third in line of succession to the throne—can greatly influence the affairs of state. Political observers now take it that Prime Minister Macmillan has been given a wider choice of dates on which to call a general election.

Macmillan can wait until next May, but the pundits had settled on Oct. 22 to Oct. 29 this year as the most likely dates. This was partly influenced by the statutory need for the Queen to formally open the new Parliament before leaving Nov. 12 on a trip to Ghana.

Now that the Ghana visit has been called off and the Queen won't be opening Parliament in person in any event, Macmillan is freed from the restriction.

Science Jubilant At Paddlewheel

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Scientists reported today they were highly pleased with the first day's performance of Explorer VI, the paddlewheel satellite fired into orbit Friday.

The jubilant scientists said that the new addition to America's space achievements already had reaped information of vast importance to future rocket probes of the moon and planets.

The successful launching heightened the likelihood of a rocket "moon mission" in October and a probe millions of miles into space tentatively scheduled for November.

It also raised the possibility of a rocket shot toward Mars when the planet is in a suitable position Oct. 1, 1960, and toward Venus in 1961.

25,000 MILES

Explorer VI, nicknamed the "Paddlewheel" because of four paddle-shaped solar cell vanes, was launched into the longest, flattest orbit ever achieved by an earth satellite.

The orbit extends 25,000 statute miles from earth at its farthest point and within 150 miles at its closest approach. It takes 12½ hours to complete each full circuit.

The 142-pound satellite is not expected to be visible to the naked eye.

The whippet was produced by crossing fox terriers and Italian greyhounds, then breeding back to English greyhounds.

WORLD-FAMOUS CAMEL BOY

Aborigine Artist Dies

ALICE SPRINGS, Australia (Reuters)—Albert Namatjira, 57, an aborigine of the Australian outback who became known around the world for his primitive paintings, died of a heart attack here tonight.

Namatjira was stricken while painting in the McDonnell Mountains, about 100 miles from this north-central Australian town.

Namatjira was a camel boy in the outback and first took up painting at the age of 31 after he saw a touring exhibition of paintings at a mission station and became fascinated with the idea of drawing pictures. He took painting lessons in return for his services as a camel boy for two years.

His landscapes became fashionable in the big cities and his name spread outside Australia when the Queen accepted one of his works as a gift while visiting Canberra in 1954.

Though hailed by critics and nationalists throughout Australia, his racial origin still brought him trouble as he prospered financially.

He planned to retreat from tribal life and live in a dream

DOWNTOWN RUINS of Roseburg after giant explosion ripped through eight-block area Friday, killing 11 and injuring 100. Heart of the Oregon city was ruined. (AP Wirephoto.)

MORE VICTIMS FEARED IN OREGON EXPLOSION

City 'Sealed' in Hunt for Dead

ROSEBURG, Ore. (AP)—Eight business blocks of this southern Oregon city, seared and shattered when a truck load of explosives blew up like a bomb, were sealed off by the National Guard today while searchers sought more victims. At least 11 persons were killed early Friday when the 6½ tons of dynamite and other explosives detonated after fire spread to the parked truck from nearby building blaze. It is feared the toll might rise to 30.

Coroner C. H. Babbitt said he was certain there were other deaths. He said ashes, believed to be the remains of humans, were found in a charred rooming-house near the blast scene. The ashes are being sent to a laboratory for testing.

Some 100 persons were injured by the blast, 32 of them requiring hospital treatment. The explosion, which eyewitnesses said sent a column of flame hundreds of feet into the air, caused extensive damage to an eight-block section on the edge of the main business district.

Buildings in some 22 blocks around the blast scene were damaged to a lesser extent. Firemen said they had reports of windows being broken as far away as seven miles.

Arlo Jacklin, mayor of this city of 12,200 said property damage would probably total $10,000,000 to $12,000,000.

The truck, loaded with two tons of stick dynamite and 4½ tons of the explosive mixture of ammonium nitrate and oil, had been parked near the Gerretsen Building Supply Company Building for the night by its driver, George Rutherford, 47, of Chehalis, Wash.

It is believed a fire started in trash cans and then spread to the Gerretsen structure.

The blast scattered embers over a wide area and a number of smaller fires were started.

The known dead all lived in Roseburg.

Firemen were fighting the fire—which spread quickly—when at 1:15 a.m. the truck blew up with a deafening roar.

LET ME GO'

Rutherford said he heard the sirens and rushed to move the truck. It exploded when he was a block away. He was thrown to the ground. Gerald Butler, a Eugene, Ore., insurance man who came to Rutherford's aid, said Rutherford screamed: "Let me go. Let me go. I've got to go down there and see how many people I've killed."

The blast scattered embers over a wide area and a number of smaller fires were started.

The known dead all lived in Roseburg.

Mayor Jacklin, surveying the tragedy that struck his city, said: "It's going to be a long time before we even think of rebuilding. We've got a lot of buildings to condemn yet."

Bad Hand Burns Saved His Life

ROSEBURG, Ore. (UPI)—Fireman Lyle Wescott suffered severe hand burns lighting a fire today and it saved his life.

Wescott was called to the scene of a blaze at the Gerretsen Building Supply Company here.

He said that neither himself nor assistant chief Roy McFarlane was aware that a truck containing six tons of dynamite and explosive chemicals was parked outside the warehouse.

"When we arrived the fire was burning in a small building and supply yard and was spreading into the main building.

The province will pay 50 per cent of the construction cost.

The new hospital will be T-shaped, two stories high and built of reinforced concrete.

Tenders Let For Hospital

Provincial authorities have approved a call for tenders for a new hospital of estimated $730,000 value at Terrace, it was announced Friday.

Hospital board for Terrace and district plans a 40-bed unit plus an unfinished area which will eventually be used to provide another 10 beds.

The province will pay 50 per cent of the construction cost.

The new hospital will be T-shaped, two stories high and built of reinforced concrete.

EXTRA-EARLY WARNING

Missile Spy Radar Built

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new radar device to spy across oceans and give a quick report on ballistic missile launches is being developed, the U.S. Navy says.

The radar also could be used as one means of uncovering sneak tests of nuclear weapons in violation of any international agreement.

Dr. William J. Thaler, father of the new radar setup called project Teepee, said Friday night:

"I would hope you could double the warning time."

This would mean that the United States would have almost 30 minutes instead of 15 minutes—possible under the U.S. system now being built—in which to launch counter-weapons. Military men figure it would take about 30 minutes for a missile fired in Russia to reach the United States.

Thaler, 33, talked to reporters about the office of naval research project. Asked whether the navy had tested the device against Russian ICBM testing launches, he replied:

"Trials with the device still is in the early 'breadboard' development stage, have worked at what amount to intercontinental ranges—5,500 miles, he said.

Thaler said the device is located at an undisclosed place in continental United States and picked up the ballistic missile-nuclear explosive tests made last summer in project Argus in the south Atlantic and the Johnston Island tests in the Pacific.

However, the New York Times said today several stations now are in operation.

With Warmest Good Wishes

THE GLAD NEWS FROM BUCKINGHAM Palace has been received with pleasure throughout Canada. The people of this country, so recently visited by Her Majesty, will feel a closer interest in her happiness because only yesterday, it seems, she was smilingly shaking hands with them.

There will be, too, a new appreciation of the physical demands which the trans-continental tour made on the Royal visitor, a new realization of the Queen's conscientious determination to carry out her public duty and disappoint no community which had looked forward to her visit.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker truly spoke for Canadians when he assured the Queen of "the affection and warmest good wishes of the Government and people of Canada." They are sentiments in which the whole Commonwealth family will join.

The Rights of Retailers

MR. FULTON IS PONDERING the anti-combines legislation which he recently introduced into Parliament and withdrew. He had better ponder deeply. For this legislation, whether he knows it or not, would destroy the ban on retail price maintenance imposed under a Liberal government in 1951.

Until that time a Canadian manufacturer could dictate the price at which his product was sold in any retail store. The retailer could not sell many kinds of branded goods below this price or engage in any effective price competition for the benefit of the consumer. As this arrangement restricted competition and tended to keep prices up, the St. Laurent government made it illegal. Retailers were permitted by law to sell the manufacturer's product at any price, high or low.

In opposition, the Conservative party bitterly attacked the Liberal policy as ruinous to the small business man and predicted that many retail stores would be forced out of business. Nothing of the sort occurred and by this year Mr. Fulton, reversing his position, announced that the ban on retail price maintenance would be continued. But his amendments to the anti-combines laws would not continue it. They would repeat it.

The repeal would not be outright, for Mr. Fulton says he is as strongly opposed to price maintenance as his predecessors. Nevertheless, the new legislation would indirectly enable any manufacturer to dictate to any retailer.

Thirty-one leading economists in nine Canadian universities have analyzed Mr. Fulton's bill and find that it "will effectively eliminate the ban on resale price maintenance," the policy which Mr. Fulton ostensibly rejects.

Moreover, the manufacturer could coerce one retail store and let another sell at any price—a dangerous principle of discrimination. But as the economists say, the broader principles and assumptions of the proposed law are quite wrong in practical application.

The Government assumes that a retailer must make a profit on every item of goods he sells or otherwise he is acting immorally and should be subject to discipline by the manufacturer.

In actual business, as distinguished from the Government's theory, a retailer tries to make a profit on his total turn-over. In so doing he may sometimes make no profit, or may take a loss, on some items and most retailers, especially small ones, simply don't know whether a single item is profitable or not. For the Government to find out whether a profit or loss has occurred in every case, would require a vast network of inspectors. In fact, it would be impossible.

The economists' memorandum to Mr. Fulton demands fair treatment for the retailer, especially the small retailer who lacks the money and power of the big stores and the chains, but the interests of the consumer must also be considered. And the interests of the consumer require the greatest possible price competition between all business concerns.

For these reasons it is to be hoped that Mr. Fulton, on second thoughts, will revise or, better, drop this phase of his legislation. He must do so if he is sincere in opposing price maintenance by manufacturers.

The Presidential Call

LAST WEDNESDAY THE U.S. Senate rackets committee made fresh charges of underworld influence in James Hoffa's leadership of the teamsters' union—of obligations and pay-offs and hand-in-hand deals. It is not a pretty picture. It smears equally the labor movement and the democratic nation in which that movement flourishes.

Two days later President Eisenhower called on the United States to enact legislation which will end the "national disgrace" of corrupt elements in labor unions. It is a call to which labor itself ought to be the first to respond. No part of the nation is hurt more by such corruption than the workers who seek the protection and strength to be derived from labor organizations.

It is true that there may be temporary advantage to be secured from the successful bargaining of the Becks and Hoffas, but a price must be paid for such leadership. Part of the price is in the funds which dictatorial leaders may convert to their own use and that of their friends; part lies in the loss of public confidence which close association with unsavoury elements must have. But a good deal of the price will be found in the which gives the manufacturer an indirect power of coercion over the retailer. If any manufacturer has "reasonable cause to believe and did believe" that a retailer was selling goods without a retail profit then the manufacturer could legally refuse to supply the retailer. By withholding supplies, the manufacturer could discipline any retailer as he pleased and enforce the retail price he desired.

Consequently, say the university economists, Mr. Fulton's legislation would "effectively enforce a thorough-going policy of resale price maintenance," the policy which Mr. Fulton ostensibly rejects.

Moreover, the manufacturer could coerce one retail store and let another sell at any price—a dangerous principle of discrimination. But as the economists say, the broader principles and assumptions of the proposed law are quite wrong in practical application.

The Government assumes that a retailer must make a profit on every item of goods he sells or otherwise he is acting immorally and should be subject to discipline by the manufacturer.

In actual business, as distinguished from the Government's theory, a retailer tries to make a profit on his total turn-over. In so doing he may sometimes make no profit, or may take a loss, on some items and most retailers, especially small ones, simply don't know whether a single item is profitable or not. For the Government to find out whether a profit or loss has occurred in every case, would require a vast network of inspectors. In fact, it would be impossible.

And the interests of the consumer require the greatest possible price competition between all business concerns.

For these reasons it is to be hoped that Mr. Fulton, on second thoughts, will revise or, better, drop this phase of his legislation. He must do so if he is sincere in opposing price maintenance by manufacturers.

The real effect of the legislation is revealed in an obscure clause

As Our Readers See It

For Better Meals

The generous gift of $25 to each of our pensioners from the B.C. Government commemorating our Queen's visit is most acceptable; as is also the fact that a substantial increase in monthly payments to Nursing Home and Boarding Houses is being authorized by Hon. Wesley Black, for the benefit of Welfare cases.

It is to be hoped and anticipated, that particularly with reference to some nursing homes in this city, the aforementioned increased amount will be used to furnish their patients with more nourishing and appetizing meals, as well as improved attention and service.

"CONSTANT OBSERVER"

Tribute

I am sure I voice the regret of many, at the passing of Edgar Guest, a man of sterling character, his many poems giving some insight as to the type of man he must have been: his love and understanding of children, animals, old age, his sense of humor, and especially the inspiration he created in his many poems.

Through the years I have collected various poems, and sent them to different people, on different occasions and to far away countries.

He has left a place in the hearts of many, although we did not know him personally, we really feel we do. "Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into eternal rest."

LOOSE ENDS

The Big Clock Runs Faster As Summer Nears Its End

AND now the great change. You may not feel it in the city but we can feel it in the bush, and hear it, and smell it, too. The bush itself is changing. After the fierce, competitive and deadly growth of the spring, when the weak members of the forest family yielded to the strong by nature's oldest law, the trees, the shrubs, the ferns and flowers are taking it easy. The year's work is nearly finished, the two-foot spikes added to the young evergreens, the extra ring of wood to their trunks, the long, sappy limbs to the maples and alders, the brave, short-lived spikes to the sword ferns, the reddening hips to the wild roses. Quite visibly the season of rest begins in the vegetable world.

YOU CAN NOT ONLY SEE BUT HEAR THE CHANGE. THE SOFT, OZING SPRING TIME FOOTSTEP OF MAN, ANIMAL OR BIRD HAS BECOME A NOISY CRACKLE ON THE PARCHED FOREST FLOOR UNTIL A TINY WREN MAKES ALMOST AS MUCH SOUND AS A DEER.

AS I WAS WRITING THIS REPORT ONE OF NATURE'S INDIVIDUAL VICTIMS DIED UNDER THE OLD LAW A FEW FEET FROM MY TYPEWRITER. A GOLDFINCH OF SPLENDID YELLOW PLUMAGE AND A DESIGN MUCH MORE BEAUTIFUL THAN THAT OF ANY MAN (OR EVEN WOMAN) FLEW AGAINST THE WINDOW-PANE AND DROPPED TO THE GROUND.

I BURIED IT PROPERLY IN THE EARTH A FEW MINUTES AGO AND STOOD LISTENING FOR THE SONG OF OTHER BIRDS. BUT THEY ARE NOT SINGING MUCH NOW. EXCEPT FOR A SMALL CRACKLE HERE AND THERE THE WOODS ARE SILENT. THAT ECSTASY OF LOVE-MAKING, NESTING AND REARING THE YOUNG WHICH FILLED THE WILDERNESS WITH LIVING SOUND

FORESTERS TELL US THAT THE WOODS ARE DANGEROUS, ONLY AWAITING A CARELESS MATCH TO IGNITE THEM, BUT YOU CANNOT SENSE THAT DANGER IN PRINTED WORDS. YOU MUST READ THE FINE PRINT OF THE FOREST ITSELF, WATCH IT ALMOST PANTING FOR THE AUTUMN RAINS AND SEE, HERE AND THERE, THE REDDISH, DEAD FOGLAGE OF THE YOUNG CEDARS THAT SOMEHOW STRUGGLED THROUGH LAST SUMMER'S DROUGHT BUT FINALLY SUCCUMBED TO ANOTHER DROUGHT THIS SUMMER. NATURE IS LOGICAL BUT RUTHLESS. IT IS JEALOUS OF THE SPECIES BUT CARES NOTHING FOR THE INDIVIDUAL.

UNTIL THE END OF JULY HAS PASSED IN THE FIRST DAYS OF AUGUST.

FREEDOM OF THE CARES OF PARENTHOOD, THE BIRDS, LIKE THE VEGETABLES, ARE TAKING IT EASY AND ALREADY MEDITATING THEIR WINTER HOLIDAY IN THE SOUTH. YES-TERDAY WE HEARD OUR FIRST SHRILL, BLUEJAY ANNOUNCING, LIKE ANY BRAZEN TRAVELER, THAT HE HAD ARRIVED FROM THE NORTH AND, AFTER A SHORT PAUSE HERE FOR REFRESHMENT AT THE BACK DOOR, WOULD PROCEED, WITH OTHER RICH FOLK, TO CALIFORNIA. THERE WAS NO DENYING THAT RAUCOUS CRY—the summer is running down fast.

THE BIG CHANGE HAS A DIFFERENT EFFECT ON THE LORD OF CREATION. MAN DOES NOT SLOW DOWN IN AUGUST. HE SPEEDS UP.

THE DEER, RACCOON, MINK AND MOUSE MAY LOOK FORWARD TO AUTUMN AND WINTER WITHOUT DREAD, BUT MAN ASSUREDLY DREADS IT. THE BIRD WILL EITHER FACE A LEAN WINTER DIET OR, IF HE IS WISE, MOVE TO EASIER CLIMES ALONG WITH THE HUMAN MILLIONAIRE. BUT THE ORDINARY MAN, WHO CAN'T AFFORD TO MOVE, MUST CRAM HIS PLEASURES INTO THE LAST WARM MONTHS OF THE NORTHERN HEMISPHERE AND HE IS CRAMMING LIKE CRAZY THESE DAYS.

THROUGHOUT THE CONTINENT THE GREAT MIGRATION FROM CITY TO WILDER-

Rowdy Female Herring Chokers on the Schooner Favorite

THE PLEASANT FAMILY OF READERS OF THE

VICTORIA TIMES MUST BE JUST ABOUT THE NICEST PEOPLE FOR WHOM A COLUMNIST MIGHT WRITE. THEY MAY NOT, PERHAPS, APPRECIATE HOW DEEPLY REWARDING ARE THEIR LETTERS, BUT LET ME ASURE THEM THAT IT IS THIS PERSONAL LINK THAT MAKES THE WRITING OF THESE WEEKLY PIECES A HAPPY HOUR.

FOR INSTANCE THERE IS THE WARM AND FRIENDLY LETTER FROM MRS. CILYAR ETTE MACNUTT, WHO LIKED THE BIT THAT WAS WRITTEN HERE ABOUT THE BEGINNINGS OF ROSSLAND. SHE SENT ME AN OLD PHOTOGRAPH OF COL. EUGENE SAYRE TOPPING, WHOSE VIVID PERSONALITY LOOMED LARGE IN THE EARLY MINING DAYS OF ROSSLAND AND TRAIL.

THE PICTURE WAS TAKEN PROBABLY 42 YEARS AGO AND SHOWS COL. AND MRS. TOPPING, THEIR DAUGHTER AND SON-IN-LAW, MR. AND MRS. CLEVELAND; HILDAH AND GRACE WILTHIRE BESIDE MRS. MACNUTT—VERY SWANK IN A LONG SKIRT, SHIRTWAIST AND WHAT I THINK IS A LEGHORN STRAW HAT.

THE GROUP IS IN FRONT OF THE TOPPING

HOME, WHICH THEN WAS A LOG AND TARPAPER STRUCTURE, IN A SMALL CLEARING IN DENSE WOODS, NEAR A LITTLE PLACE CALLED EBERTS.

ANOTHER INTRIGUING LETTER CAME FROM H. EVAN FROOME, HARD ON THE HEELS OF A PIECE HERE ON JULY 25 ABOUT THE SCHOONER FAVORITE.

THIS IS MR. FROOME'S VIGNETTE:

AT THE BEGINNING OF THE FIRST WORLD WAR, THE OLD SCHOONER HAD BEEN DESTINED FOR THE "BOONEYARD" AS A WORNOUT HULK WHEN IT OCCURRED TO A VICTORIA REAL ESTATE MAN THAT SHE MIGHT BE RECOMMISSIONED AS A FLOATING CANNERY AND ANCHORED UP-COAST.

CAPT. GEORGE HEATER, ONE OF THE FAMOUS SEALING FLEET SKIPPIERS OF THE EARLY DAYS, JOINED THE PROMOTER IN THE VENTURE AND SECURED THE SEINE LENI F., OF WHICH MR. FROOME WAS ENGINEER. THE LENI'S FIRST JOB WAS TO TOW THE FAVORITE TO SYDNEY INLET, WHERE SHE WAS ANCHORED IN SHELTER AND ON GOOD HOLDING GROUND.

HERE SHE WAS REFURBISHED AND BECAME HEADQUARTERS FOR THE GRIFFITHS FISHING COMPANY, WHOSE OBJECT WAS TO SEINE FOR HERRING WHICH WERE TO BE PREPARED FOR BAIT TO BE SOLD TO AMERICAN HALIBUT BOATS.

SOME OF THE HERRING WERE TO BE MILD-

CURED FOR THE DOMESTIC MARKET AND FOR THIS PURPOSE A SMALL CREW OF GIRLS WAS HIRED AND HOUSED IN THE FAVORITE.

THE "HERRING CHOKERS," AS MR. FROOME REFERS TO THE GIRLS, WERE APPARENTLY A CONVIVIAL LOT AND LET IT BE KNOWN TO VISITING HALIBUT BOAT CREWS THAT A GIFT OF A FEW BOTTLES OF WHISKY WOULD NOT BE AMISS.

WHEN THE LIQUOR WASN'T FORTHCOMING, THE GIRLS WERE SOMEWHAT PERTURBED. BUT THEY WERE BUILT OF STERN STUFF AND PERSUADED A MEMBER OF FAVORITE'S CREW TO SMASH HER OLD BINNACLE GLASS. THIS YIELDED HALF A BUCKET OF OLD ALCOHOL TO WHICH THE RESOURCEFUL GIRLS ADDED SEVERAL BOTTLES OF GINGER ALE AND SETTLED DOWN FOR WHAT MUST HAVE BEEN ONE OF THE EPIC DRUNKEN PARTIES OF THE COAST.

MRS. FROOME SAYS TWO OF THE GIRLS ROWED ASHORE—it must have been a pretty piece of navigation—with the avowed intention of romancing the young and handsome telegrapher at RILEY'S COVE. IT IS NOT RECORDED HOW THE YOUTH ESCAPED THE FATE PLANNED FOR HIM BY THE SQUALIFIED HERRING CHOKERS.

IT IS RECORDED, HOWEVER, THAT IT RE-

QUIRED A BOATLOAD OF POLICE TO BRING THE SITUATION UNDER CONTROL NEXT DAY.

IT WOULD BE PLEASANT TO WRITE THAT FAVORITE ENDED HER DAYS IN A BLAZE OF GLORY. THE COLD FACT IS THAT THE GRIFFITH FISHERIES, FOR REASONS NOT DISCLOSED, "BLEW UP AFTER ITS SECOND SEASON," AS MR. FROOME PUTS IT.

THE OLD HULK, WHICH MAY WELL HAVE BEEN STIRRING DAYS IN THE SEALING FISHERIES OFF THE PIBLOFFS, WHERE GENTLENESS AND COURTESY AMONG THE ROUGH, TOUGH SEALERS WAS NOTABLE ONLY FOR ITS COMPLETE ABSENCE, WAS ABANDONED TO SLOWLY SINK TO THE BOTTOM OF SYDNEY INLET.

ONE MAY PRESUME THE GIRLS SOUGHT NEW AND MORE LUCRATIVE SCENES.

I SHOULD LIKE TO ADD HOW WELCOME ARE THE LETTERS FROM SUCH APPRECIATIVE READERS AS MRS. NELLY McCANDLE OF HUDSON HOLLOW, WHERE SHE DISPENSES GOOD CHEER AND A HEALING TOUCH IN THE RED CROSS OUTPOST HOSPITAL. FROM MRS. JEAN BREUNING OF COLORADO SPRINGS AND FROM MRS. FRANK MOORE, WHO WAS JENNIE MALCOLM IN THE HAPPY, HAPPY DAYS WHEN WE WERE VERY YOUNG.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

By SILENUS

One Up in the Limousine

THE last few days spent by this column have been spent (if not over-spent) in constant travel. There oughta be a law; but there isn't, so instead gentle readers are going to have to put up with the by-products of certain observations made by the piercing eye of this far-ranging feature.

Public conveyances, within reason, afford many an occasion for the giving forth of philosophical profundities by those inclined to the task. The habits and attitudes of people being driven or whisked or whirled about in the mass are a fruitful field for the social scientist—whatever he is. Why shouldn't I get into the act? Let us start with the humble ups and downs of everyday life.

Gentle readers (and I suppose there are a few) who are in the habit of going up and down in elevators will have noticed that strange stiffening silence which descends upon the occupants when the door clangs shut on them. Conversations die away; everyone clamps his teeth and stares grimly at the ceiling, as if searching for a new planet. I have no idea why this happens, but it does. In North America, that is.

Professor Laudenboemer, in his interesting monograph "Elevatorbemusmus," published in Leipzig in 1957, puts it down to the imminent escape of certain suppressed desires often sublimated in dreams about

They exchange indignant looks whenever the pilot gives forth with one of his little bulletins ("This is the pilot speaking. We are travelling at 18,000 feet; our airspeed is 310 mph; we will be landing at Rangoon in approximately 20 minutes. It is now 2:10 a.m. Rangoon time. Please, adjust your watches. The outside temperature is 71 degrees. There will be a two-hour stop at Rangoon; because of an epidemic passengers must not leave the Nissen hut provided for their convenience. Fasten your seatbelts. No smoking. Thank you." For what, the passengers ask themselves sourly.) At the conclusion of these messages from the man who has them at his mercy the passengers, if they were not restrained by their seatbelts and the watchful eye of a beefy stewardess skilled in judo, would undoubtedly huddle together, bosom to bosom.

Talking of flying dreams, they are nothing to an overdose of the real thing. Passengers in airplanes are not a bit like lift-goers. They are bound together in the camaraderie of impending doom. They tend, on long flights, to adopt the collective manner of an exclusive club when faced with a raise in its tax assessment.

I could go on like this for hours. Buses, trains, monorails, helicopters . . . but space is under the thumb of a parsimonious publisher intent only on his circulation. Maybe one day I will be able to pursue this interesting subject at more length. But right now I am going out to buy me a horse.

Famous Gout Sufferers

LONDON—Good news for those who suffer from gout. It might well be that it is an indication that you're a very bright person.

Sir Osbert Sitwell, a sufferer himself, has drawn up an imposing list of great brains who were inflicted with gout. He says: "Kubl Khan and Talyrand, William Pitt, and the Bacons, father and son, Wesley and Darwin, Gibbon and Fielding, Milton and Newton, and many another name as famous help to compose the roll of honor of this martyred but happy band."

And to back up the argument he quotes the late Dr. Haweck Ellis: "It occurs so often in men of such pre-eminent intellectual ability that it is impossible not to regard it as having a real association with such ability."

Does that ease the pain a little?

What's in a name? (1) I didn't know until now that authoress Rebecca West's real name is Cecily Isabel Fairfield. Why did she adopt the other as a by-line? "My own name was too impossible pretty, no one could live up to it," she says. "But now I'm rather sorry. I chose Rebecca West. It makes me sound more of a battleaxe than I hope."

(2) Also I didn't know until now the real name of Mary Astor, who always looked so charming on the screen in the old days and had the name to go with it. In truth, she's Lucile Langhanke.

SERVED GULF ISLANDS

Police Boat Retirement Recalls Thrilling Days

By RHONA ASHLEE
Times Ganges Correspondent

GANGES—After 30 years of service in the Gulf Islands, the last of the original B.C. Police boats, the MP 73, will soon be taken out of service.

Known as the PB6 locally, she has been based at Ganges Harbour and is a familiar sight throughout the islands.

The 45-foot vessel was built by the former Hoffar-Beeching Shipyards Ltd., in Vancouver in 1928, and after serving for a short time on the West Coast of Vancouver Island, was based at Ganges. Basically she is the same today as then.

The anecdote concerned his shooting the crossing of the Red Sea sequence. Everything was lined up ready—the thousands of extras and all their paraphernalia, the elaborate mechanism for creating the illusion, the millions of gallons of water, etc., etc.

* * *

The shooting of this scene alone would cost $100,000, so De Mille had three cameras set up, to make sure that they got it on celluloid and all that money didn't go down the drain.

He called "Action!" The waters parted, the extras streamed over in their thousands—the whole thing a wonderful spectacle.

"Okay?" he called out to No. 1 camera crew when it was all over. Sorry, they said dejectedly, their camera had gone on the blink.

De Mille checked with camera No. 2. They were unhappy also. The film had jammed just as they got started and they hadn't been able to get the camera working again.

In desperation, De Mille bellowed to the crew of the remaining camera: "Okay?" Came the reply: "Ready when you are, Mr. De Mille."

De Mille checked with camera No. 2. They were unhappy also. The film had jammed just as they got started and they hadn't been able to get the camera working again.

In desperation, De Mille bellowed to the crew of the remaining camera: "Okay?" Came the reply: "Ready when you are, Mr. De Mille."

The shooting of this scene alone would cost $100,000, so De Mille had three cameras set up, to make sure that they got it on celluloid and all that money didn't go down the drain.

He called "Action!" The waters parted, the extras streamed over in their thousands—the whole thing a wonderful spectacle.

"Okay?" he called out to No. 1 camera crew when it was all over. Sorry, they said dejectedly, their camera had gone on the blink.

De Mille checked with camera No. 2. They were unhappy also. The film had jammed just as they got started and they hadn't been able to get the camera working again.

A WRITER'S DIARY

By ROBERTSON DAVIES

An author who calls his book A HISTORY OF SEXUAL CUSTOMS makes a bold claim, for there is no realm in which it is so difficult to discover the truth. In this field of human behaviour there are always two parts—what people are popularly believed to do, and what, in actual fact, they do—and they may be asunder. The two great reports published by the late Dr. Kinsey and his associates were met with protest because they offered statistical proof that things were done, and done often, which many people felt should not be done at all.

However, the title which I have mentioned above is that used for a translation of a book by a German sociologist, Dr. Richard Lewinsohn, which appeared in English in 1958. It is an excellent book school-

'Flabby Monsters' Were Beauty Queens

He begins with the earliest times of which we have any record, about 6,000 B.C., and on the evidence of a few primitive female figures—the "Venus of Willendorf" and the "Venus of Bispugue" are two of these—he offers some reflections on a possible cult of fertility, in which these flabby monsters figured as 'deals.'

Personally I think such conclusions fanciful; all we may safely guess about the sexual life of our most remote an-

Progress by Leaps and Rebounds

Some historians write as if the journey of woman toward her present equality had been continuous, slow progress. Dr. Lewinsohn suggests rather that it was achieved by a series of leaps, interrupted by backward steps.

The patrician woman of Rome, for instance, was almost as free as the woman of today, but she sank backward into servitude during the years between 400 and 1,000 A.D.

The position of women in the Middle Ages varied greatly from place to place; female scholars and greatly enfranchised women lived contemporaneously with women

Women's Freedom No New Thing

Many customs which related to the older Celtic beliefs persisted in remote parts of the British Isles until well into the eighteenth century. The sexual customs of the Celts, incidentally, were very liberal toward women—far more so than the chivalrous code of the Middle Ages.

Women have not advanced from a primitive bondage to a modern freedom. They have occupied every position from that of chattel to equal citizen, not once but several times in history, and the economic and cultural level of society was what dictated their fate.

Casanovas Were Leisured Beings

Adultery at present appears to be at a lower ebb than for some centuries, for the curious reason that men are much harder-worked than ever before, and that they demand stability in marriage as a factor in their domestic comfort.

Don Juan had a private fortune, and limitless leisure for his hobby; the modern man of business has little time or energy for serious mischief-making of this kind.

Women, however, have more leisure than ever before. What sort of situation that creates, every reader must decide from personal knowledge.

A reading of Dr. Lewinsohn's 409 carefully documented pages leaves me with

STAMP CORNER

By REG. NAIRNE

The three main factors which govern stamp values are rarity, popularity and condition. The rare stamps of popular groups such as B.N.A., Great Britain, or the U.S.A., will fetch far higher prices than equally rare items from such philatelically neglected places as the Spanish or Portuguese colonies.

The catalogue makers try to take all these things into consideration and as well, study question realizations, which are one of the best indications of popular trends. Even so, most of the prices shown in the catalogues cannot be considered much more than approximations.

Thus a specialist who has made an intensive study of a country's stamps, can easily be a better authority on values in his chosen field, than the standard catalogues.

For instance, there are a few stamps from Barbados—a very popular colony with collectors, by the way—which appear to be in the "sleeper" class.

One stamp in particular seems underpriced at $22.50 for either the mint or used copy. This is the 3d. Queen's head type of 1886, which was issued when parcel post was inaugurated in the colony. It can still be bought at the usual discount which prevails in the stamp trade, for $12.50 or so. Yet there were only 3,600 printed!

Allowing for the normal wastage (or naturally only a small percentage of those used would have survived for collectors after 70 years had

ART IN REVIEW

By MONCRIEFF WILLIAMSON

Painters Outside 'Seven' Produced Liveliest Art

In the winter, 1956, number of Queen's Quarterly Professor George Swinton wrote: "A. Y. Jackson and so many other painters of the Group of Seven have not advanced in any way worth noticing. F. H. Varley is an exception."

And while I would gladly borrow George Swinton's title of his article "Our Lively Arts" for this my second article on Ernest E. Poole and Family Collection, I regret that the adjective 'lively' would seem out of place.

It applies most admirably to Williamson painters such as Morrice, Gagnon, Tom Thomson and, as George Swinton pointed out, Emily Carr and Milne. Not always, alas, to their colleagues.

What I am trying to convey is the observation that in this very fine collection (on view at Victoria Art Gallery until Sept. 13) liveliness presents to be found mainly outside the group.

Even the possible inclusion of works by Franz Johnston, Lawren Harris or the latecomers to the group, A. J. Casson, Edwin Holgate and L. Fitzgerald could not have alleviated the set-in conservatism which deadened so many group palettes when they should have been at their most flamboyant.

Reason for Revolt

I have the greatest admiration for such men as A. Y. Jackson, especially when I see such a delightful small canvas as "Winter in the Backwoods," but confronted with such stylized wooliness as Jackson's "Houses on the St. Lawrence," is it any wonder that the younger Canadian painters were in revolt?

There is ample evidence that the senior artists themselves grew tired of the provincialism blended with nationalistic awareness which permeated much of the Canadian artistic scene during the twenties and thirties. Canadian Landscape was Canadian Landscape and

French Novelist Observes Life In Canada

HERVE BAZIN

One of the most widely read French novelists of this generation and a member of the Goncourt Academy, Hervey Bazin, 42, has received a Canadian Council senior non-resident fellowship to come to Canada. Mr. Bazin will use the fellowship (valued at $5,000 for a full year) and travel allowance to spend six or seven months in Canada, and to visit all the provinces and northern territories.

It is Mr. Bazin's intention to write a series of articles on the whole of Canada, to be published in France and possibly in Canada. He wishes also to write a novel based on observations during his stay.

Mr. Bazin has written six novels and a number of short stories, and has written many articles for the French press. Among his works are La mort du petit cheval, Levez-toi et marche, L'Huile sur le feu, and Qui l'ose aimer.

It will be the novelist's second visit to Canada. Last year he spoke at the opening of the Salón du Livre in Montreal.

arly in tone but not dull, and by no means sensational in material or presentation.

The only thing about it which disturbs me is that Dr. Lewinsohn seems very sure of his facts in a realm where facts are elusive.

This new emphasis relates to the emergence of women as human beings with a psychology of equal importance to man's.

We are apt to forget that for hundreds of years Christianity was the official religion of countries where most of the lower orders were still pagan in virtually every respect.

The Christianity of the courtiers who surrounded Ethelred the Unready in England must be contrasted with the paganism of his serfs, and the "heathen"—which means simply those people who lived on the hearth, far from court influence and far from a church.

Soul-Searching Poet Sustains Freshness

This fourth version of Robert Graves' Collected Poems (Cassell) bears a frontispiece portrait of the author as male maenad which can conveniently be checked against his own self-description on page 301: Crookedly broken nose—low-tackling caused it; Cheeks puffed; coarse grey hair, flying frenetic; Forehead, wrinkled and high; Jowls, prominent; ears, large; jaw, pugnacious; Teeth, few; lips, full and ruddy; mouth, ascetic. I paused with razor poised, scowling derision At the mirrored man whose beard needs my attention.

And once more ask him why He still stands ready, with a boy's presumption, To court the queen in her high silk pavilion.

This note of self-questioning, this "boy's presumption," has long been a characteristic of Mr. Graves' poems.

Even in the 41 pieces in the two sections that have been added to his last collected volume (1947) there is sometimes, along with the stylistic assurance and practised reaching after epithet, the same uneasiness about what subjects are really worth a poem, the same inability to be finally, overwhelmingly memorable.

It is this illusion of novitiate hesitance—as if his every poem were his first—that makes Graves' work so free of the vices common to poetic middle age—cliques of vision, hastily inflated philosophy, the plain loss of interest—and it is kept fresh by his continual readiness to try for new effects:

You, love, and I
(He whispers) you and I.
And if no more than only you and I
What care you and I?

Two other good stamps in this colony worth buying at present-day prices are the 2s. and 3s. of the 1912 series. About 12,000 each were ordered, but quite a few were set aside for fiscal use, being overprinted with the word "Revenue" for this purpose.

These stamps are peculiar in one respect—they show the head of King George V in a medallion at the top, but the rather quaint "Seal of the Colony" which makes up the main part of the design shows a miniature Queen Victoria in a chariot, driving her sea-horses over the waves.

On the next issue, which appeared in 1916, King George V is shown at the reins, but the chariot is being assisted by paddlewheels at the sides, to the apparent astonishment of one of the horses, which is looking over its shoulder at the strange contraption!

The Egyptian cubit measured the distance between the elbow and the middle finger tip.

"Early Autumn" and "The Pines" by Tom Thomson were my first introduction to this artist's painterly strength and richness as a born colorist. His tragic death by drowning in Canoe Lake is all the more tragic when one has had this first-hand glimpse into his power as a painter.

Even "The Fisherman" is more than a simple study of sportsmanship.

Character Paramount

"Girl's Head" by F. H. Varley, despite the ugly, kinetic angle of the pose, reveals Varley's talents as a portrait painter; an artist more concerned with the character, than likeness, of the sitter.

For the majority of Canadians, the work of Clarence Gagnon (1881-1942) was best known through the du luxe editions of books which he illustrated and which are hard to come by as uranium.

The opportunity to examine such delightful studies as "Le Moulin de la Reine-Charlotte," "Baie St. Paul," and "Evening, Sienna," should not be missed.

To sum up. The Ernest E. Poole and Family Collection is most welcome out here on the coast. It is to be hoped that a further selection will be made available to us at a later date.

It is only through inter-provincial exchanges such as this that Canadians can assess the true wealth of Canada's hard-won tradition.

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

In considering the two stage productions that were major events in this year's Vancouver International Festival, not in their separate categories but simply as theatre, the reason for the success of one and failure of the other could be summed up fairly simply.

The opera—"Orpheus and Euridice"—revealed qualities of inspiration in its direction. The play—"Mary Stuart"—did not.

But actually, in analyzing any work of art, whatever its calibre, it is seldom either possible or fair to go so straightly from A to Z.

There were one or two instances where inspiration faltered in "Orpheus" and some mighty competent workmanship in "Mary Stuart." In

Spoken-Word Recording Conjures Up Mark Twain

By HUMPHREY DAVY

If you are a fan of Mark Twain's works you will have a chance of hearing a re-creation of the famous writer's voice when Columbia this fall releases a record entitled "Mark Twain Tonight."

The artist playing the part of Mark Twain will be the brilliant young actor Hal Holbrook, who has won several awards for his remarkable impersonations of the famous American.

Mr. Holbrook created his characterization ten years ago following intensive research on the author's voice, appearance and extraordinary platform manner as well as his writings. It should be an interesting disc.

Caring the spoken word, I would like to hear recordings featuring John Masefield, England's poet laureate, who is best known for his works dealing with the sea, such as "Sea Fever" and "Cargoes."

It was also distressing to note in this sixth performance, two or three goals on the part of the backstage crew.

Undoubtedly an aberration on the part of the designer—or did he have his tongue in his cheek and a penchant for mockery?

It was also distressing to note in this sixth performance, two or three goals on the part of the backstage crew.

Subtlety of Singing Columns

Soon I discovered that the impression of great columns that flanked the set on either side, was in reality scrim curtains, weighted and drawn into a taut backward curve and so subtly lighted from behind and above that one only gradually became aware of the hooded and robed chorus on tiers of risers behind the scrim.

The effect was like dimly seen carvings on alabaster pillars. For chorus numbers conductor Olin Fjeldstad used a baton with a lighted tip.

All three soloists—Kerstin Meyer as Orpheus, beautiful Mary Costa as Euridice and Marguerite Gignac as Amor, God of Love, were vocally of exceptional calibre.

Both Meyer's contralto and Costa's soprano were rich, full-bodied voices, supple and expressive. It is gratifying to note that Canadian Gignac's diction was cleanest of the three.

On the other hand her figure and movement were ungraceful to the role of the boy god. Also it was astounding to see, in so beautifully mounted a production, a strong suggestion of "Miss Bathing Girl of 1900" in her costume.

Mary—a Haughty, Charmless Queen

Granted that Schiller's play, "Mary Stuart," and especially in its present adaptation, has little that is new or arresting to offer on the theme of political expedience and human chicanery, its weakness seemed principally to lie in the casting.

Some years ago many critics found violent disagreement with Katherine Hepburn's portrayal of Shakespeare's Rosalind in "As You Like It."

Certainly she was not the Elizabethan conception of even a hoydenish English heroine; how much less could she conceivably have portrayed the French court-cultivated Scottish queen.

The point of all this is that Vivien Leigh's Mary Stuart reminded me inescapably of Katie Hepburn's Rosalind.

Mary of Scotland's burgeoning femininity, her magnetic Stuart charm in presence of

Shouted Monotone Unforgivable

These things considered, it is possible to forgive Miss Lindfors her lack of warmth and charm. What is not possible is to overlook the vocal ham that had her uttering emotion-packed speeches in a shout monotone.

Eva Le Gallienne's Elizabeth was a much more satisfying piece of work.

There was truth and subtlety, fine projection of thought and mood, the expected flexibility of the virtuous actress here. Absence of any great or memorable qualities was as much due to lack of inspiration in script and direction as to any failure on Miss Le Gallienne's part.

A gratifying competence was demonstrated by Canadian supporting cast with the exception, I felt, of Bruno Gerussi, whose work I have admired on other occasions. In this he was clearly mis-

GRUBER CONDUCTS

Fine Performance Of a Masterpiece

By HANS GRUBER

The second Vancouver International Festival—its musical portion, at least—really came into its own last Saturday evening, with a performance of Anton Bruckner's gorgeous F-minor Mass No. 3, "The Great," for mixed chorus, orchestra, and four solo voices.

Though it was the first concert this summer at which I was present in person, I did hear broadcasts of some previous performances; I should, on that basis, agree with the opinion of knowledgeable listeners that last Saturday, marked the peak so far of Hans Gruber this year's festival.

Still to come, of course, are two repeat concerts with the great Bruno Walter conducting, and they will be the subject of next week's article here.

The Bruckner Mass, which was preceded by Vivaldi's Gloria for chorus, orchestra, and solo soprano and alto voices, was conducted by the festival's artistic director himself, Nicholas Goldschmidt, who, incidentally, will appear as guest conductor with the Victoria Symphony Orchestra this winter.

Words cannot convey the beauty of this choral-orchestral creation of Bruckner's, which, like so many other masterworks for this combination of forces, lies in inexplicable neglect.

APPROPRIATE

Great gratitude is due to Goldschmidt for his vision and courage in producing the Bruckner Mass, particularly appropriate within the framework of what purports to be a major festival of the arts, and which ought to orientate itself more fully toward the performances of such works as are not likely to be heard during the resident orchestra's regular subscription season.

It was a performance worthy of the work, than which no higher praise can be accorded the performers. The chorus carries the brunt of the burden; the festival chorus has worked since last February with Goldschmidt in preparation of this August event, and covered itself with glory.

This may have been the finest choral singing ever heard hereabouts. Goldschmidt, who himself sings like an angel, particularly the German lieder literature appears happiest as a conductor, in this medium.

PURE DICTION

The diction of the large chorus was intelligible syllable for syllable, and it was a joy in itself to hear Latin pronunciation minus such excruciating anglicisms as "in vitam venturum," which emerged in blissful purity as ventoore.

THREE GOLD CUP BOATS GIVEN EXTRA CHANCE

SEATTLE (AP) — Three Washington State boats were given another chance today to qualify for the Gold Cup race for unlimited hydroplanes to be held on Lake Washington Sunday.

Thirteen speedboats had qualified when the scheduled time ran out at 5 p.m. Friday. Still on the beach were the Miss Seattle, Coral Reef of Tacoma and Miss Tri-Cities of Pasco. An extension was granted.

To qualify for the 90-mile classic, boats must circle a three-mile course three times at an average speed of 95 miles an hour or better.

Should all fail to qualify, the first two heats of Sunday's race each will run in two sections. Gold Cup rules say that no more than seven boats may be on the water at one time. Two more qualifiers will necessitate three-section heats.

The seven leading boats at the conclusion of two heats will run in the final 30-mile heat.

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

There should be no doubt about the third league. Chances are it will get going by 1961. There is still no one who can throw a baseball or hit it on the payroll. No one is clear yet where the players will come from. But it is on the border of reality. It is no longer just conversation, but a playerless federation founded by wealthy and independent people.

The people connected with The Continental League, as the union of yet unformed baseball teams has called itself, have the means to finance their vision. They are accustomed to success in other fields and municipal patriotism has caused them to represent their cities in this challenge to organized baseball. They understand the complications of this immense proposition because a couple of them have operated lucrative minor-league franchises.

Already syndicates from New York, Houston, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Toronto and Denver have chipped in $50,000 apiece to lay the groundwork for the most ambitious project in all the ages of sports. The tax laws make the foundation of the National and American Leagues small by comparison. It is the biggest business deal ever attempted in the records of games in this country.

Of course, this is a gamble. All such promotions must be speculative. The obstacles are great, but I'm certain they will get their league on the planes and will work out a schedule. That, in a way, would be a victory. But they must do more than this.

They describe themselves as a big league, but they can't be the equals of the older unions in the first couple of seasons. They must make money to continue because even the rich men involved in this adventure will run short if they are asked to support a minimum of eight baseball companies over an extended stretch of time.

Getting the teams on the field should be a simple matter. In New York, not a shovel full of earth has been turned on the promised stadium, but they can play in Ebbets Field if the joint isn't finished by the time they're set to go. But what kind of clubs will compete in the 154-game tournament they will hold from April until September? Their main problem is the men who will perform the game. It is difficult now for the 16 major league teams to find players up to their established standards.

Intimidated by a Curious Congress

It is clear to them they are not wanted in organized baseball and they enter it as unwelcome guests. They will be tolerated because the men who now control the game have been intimidated by an inquisitive Congress that is curious about their monopolistic arrogance. They may still be rejected by the stockholders in the majors, but they believe they will be taken in because of the political pressure which would be provoked if they were turned away. But they should not expect any help, and if they get any, it will be reluctant.

The sport of baseball is the player. No one buys tickets because men of wealth invest in a firm. Beautiful stadia don't fill themselves. Managers never drew, and that goes for Casey Stengel, Leo Durocher, John McGraw or Connie Mack. Civic pride might cause the people of a city to attend games for a few seasons. Novelty may guarantee a year's profit. But, after a while, a boring ball club will keep people out of the handsome park.

New York will be the toughest to convince. New Yorkers are accustomed to Babe Ruth and Joe DiMaggio, Willie Mays and Carl Hubbell, Jackie Robinson and Duke Snider. All the great players since baseball commenced passed through here until the Giants and Dodgers ran for the train. Until it can develop a solar system of its own, the third league must depend on guys too old to play in the bigs, busters who belong in the minors and inexperienced kids.

The new people must compete with the American and National in the bonus market. Their bids will have to be higher, and they are exorbitant now. Even when they want to pay more than the competition, their offers may be ignored. Organized baseball offers a pension unmatched by any other industry. The Continental League intends to institute a pension plan, but it must compete with one subsidized by the radio and television receipts of the World Series and the All-Star Game.

What impresses me is the dream of baseball hasn't perished in this country. We are glad people and baseball is part of our national joy. We still want it in our cities and important people are willing to risk fortunes to buy it for their home-towns.

There will be a third league, all right. The people running it are big league. But how can the players be?

VICTORIA TEAM NAMED

City Babe Ruthers Versatile

Records don't always tell the whole story when it comes to picking all-star teams.

For example, just take a glance at the Victoria Babe Ruth League All-Stars who will represent this city in the regional tournament which starts Thursday at Royal Athletic Park.

While many of the choices could have been predicted from league hitting and pitching records, some players with less spectacular records also made the grade. Versatility apparently had a lot to do with the selections.

Among the "predictables" were Larry Johnston, Dwayne

Peverett, Ken Gregory, Bill McAdams and Dave Rivers.

Johnston, in addition to leading the league batters with a fine .366 average, compiled a 4-4 record on the pitcher's mound and is a shortstop when he's not pitching. The other five were at the top of the batting standings, in the above order.

McAdams, in addition to hitting .302, was tied for top pitching honors with Pete Moody. Both had 7-1 won-lost records.

Moody, though, did not make the team. On the other hand, John Yankoski, with a 4-3 record and a .273 batting average, did. Selectors, it seems, did not turn a blind eye on the fact that Yankoski's losses, for the most part, were "tough-luck" defeats. He also plays third base.

Expected to provide the pitching-punch along with McAdams and Yankoski will be George Hemming, who hit a measly .085, but didn't let many other players hit either. He ended up, after a number of duels with McAdams, with a 6-2 record.

Dave Woodley, with a .35 record, was another surprise. He hit .262, Bob Newman, who plays first base, may get a try at pitching, although his mound record was 0-0 for the season.

Peverett plays second base, Gregory divides his talents between the outfield and first, and Rivers is a catcher. Other players on the team will be Jerry Cooper, outfield and catcher; Robin Jeffrey, infield; Ross Bryant, infield; Stan Thorne, outfield; Ollie Goldsmith, utility, and Ken James, also utility.

The team will be managed by Ron Bland and coached by Bert Waring.

Counting Victoria, a total of eight teams will be competing. B.C.'s other representatives will be New Westminster. Opponents will come from Alaska, Washington, Idaho, Oregon, Montana and Wyoming.

GOLFER'S DILEMMA

Proving Oregon golfers "play 'em where they lie" is Ernie McGee, who drove his ball into trunk of tree 30 feet above ground while playing at Agate Beach, Oregon. McGee, a TV cable operator, used his own truck to gain elevation for recovery shot. (NEA).

DUNCAN IN FINAL

Larry Tough In Tight Spot

PENTICTON (CP) — Vancouver and Duncan meet here tonight in the British Columbia final of the Little League baseball championship.

Vancouver whitewashed East Burnaby 8-0 in one semi-final Friday night while Duncan squeezed out a 3-2 win over Trail.

Steve Cohen's home run in the first inning launched a seven-run outburst that got Vancouver away to a flying start.

Vancouver pitcher Ken McIntosh recorded 15 strikeouts on the way to his big win.

Trail's Donnie McLeod pitched a beautiful ball game against Duncan, but it wasn't enough to win the game.

Holding tight to a one-run lead, the Duncan club stayed off a sensational last-inning bid to earn the victory.

Even in the third, when Larry Paradis loaded the bases with his only walk and a couple of errors by his teammates, the Island club stayed in control. With one out and three on, they got the second out at the plate then snagged Barry McGillivray at first.

Trail's two runs came in the fourth after McLeod singled and Ray Christensen, who lost an eye two years ago in an accident—hammered a home run over the centre-field fence.

McCOVEY HITLESS

Mays also came up with a fielding gem, robbing Johnny Temple of an extra-base hit in the fourth with a leaping catch. Willie crashed into the barrier and was shaken up, but he held the ball.

With a crowd of 22,794 watching, rookie sensation Willie McCovey went hitless for the first time in his eight major league games.

Stan Musial crashed a two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth to snap a 1-1 tie for the Cardinals' victory over the Phillies. Lindy McDaniel, who replaced starter Wilmer Mizell in the ninth, was credited with the victory.

SCORE FAILS AGAIN

Over on the American League, southpaw Herb Score failed for the seventh straight time in an effort to notch his 10th victory although his Cleveland mates staked him to a 7-3 lead.

Moseley also provided the big bat at the plate, lashing out a double and two singles to pace the winners' 13-hit attack against Dave Emery.

Score was relieved in the fourth inning by Al Cicotte, who held Baltimore Orioles in check to rest of the game as the Indians picked up an 8-5 victory to stay on the heels of league-leading Chicago White Sox, who whipped Washington Senators, 4-1.

New York Yankees wrested fourth place from Kansas City by defeating the Athletics, 3-0, and Boston nipped Detroit, 4-3, to drop the Tigers into sixth place.

FIGHT PUZZLE

Who, Whom, Why?

GOTEBORG, Sweden (AP)—The baffling heavyweight championship promotional riddle, already with more angles than a geometry book, spread out to still another city Friday, and posed still another question.

The new question was: "Who met whom, and why?"

Ingemar Johansson, the champion; Bill Rosenthal, promoter of the June title fight between Johansson and Floyd Patterson; Truman Gibson, president of National Boxing Enterprises, Inc., and Jack Solomons, London promoter, all appeared in Paris simultaneously.

Returning here, Johansson denied either he or his advisor, Edwin Ahlquist, had met Solomons.

Solomons, refusing to London, said he not only had met the Swedish fighter and Ahlquist, but had dined with them for three hours Thursday night.

Johansson and Ahlquist flatly denied comment when asked if they had met with Gibson, who said he was in Paris to visit his daughter.

The one concrete fact seemed to be that Ingemar and Ahlquist did meet with Rosenthal, as Ahlquist said he thought the erstwhile president of Rosenthal Enterprises, Inc., "looked a bit tired and worn out."

Johansson was almost surly when he returned here from the Paris jaunt. Only at Ahlquist's instigation would he say anything.

When he did talk it was to toss a figurative wrench into the plans for a rematch with Patterson Sept. 22. He demanded a full accounting by Sunday at the latest of his purpose for the June bout.

"If it doesn't come, the fight will have to be postponed," he said.

Ahlquist admitted that "the chances for a Sept. 22 match look very slim."

Solomons denied he went to Paris to sign Johansson for a British fight in advance of the return fight with Patterson.

Balcony Returns in Plan For Comfortable Living

Those who regret the disappearance of the front balcony from post-war house designs will find this well-planned, compact frame bungalow an interesting house. It provides for convenient living despite its modest size. Designed by the Montreal architectural firm of Affleck, Desbarats, Dimakopoulos, Levensold, Michaud and Sise, the three-bedroom plan features a good interior layout which is designed around a central bathroom core. This allows the sleeping area to be completely closed off from the living section and provides two-way circulation.

In addition, by raising the ground floor six steps from the grade level, the architects have assured a large, well-lighted basement for a future recreation room. The main access to the house is from a balcony while the secondary entrance opens into the basement from a stairwell at the rear.

The total floor area is 889 inches by 29 feet. Working drawings for the house, known as Design 294, may be obtained from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at minimum cost.

Put Yourself on Guard Against Moisture Damage

Condensation is at a maximum in new homes. When your home was built, many gallons of water went into materials such as concrete, plaster, tile work and even some types of paint. This water is still lodged within the walls—especially basement walls—and its gradual evaporation contributes to a higher moisture content in the air.

Provide ventilation wherever possible, but do not try to accelerate the normal drying-out process in a new home. Creating high warming temperatures will only tend to cause an uneven drying which will exaggerate the effects of normal shrinkage, and can permanently damage lumber and millwork in a new house.

DAMPNESS NOT ALWAYS LEAKAGE

The presence of water on basement walls sometimes leads the homeowner to conclude that the water is coming through the walls from the outside. Most frequently, however, dampness in basements is the result of the condensation of warm moist air on the relatively cool surface of the inside basement walls.

It is an easy matter to determine whether simple condensation is the cause of dampness in your basement. If cold water pipes "sweat" it's condensation. For a positive test, place a small mirror on the basement wall. If it becomes foggy and damp after a few hours' exposure to basement air, condensation is present and the solution lies in better air circulation.

To ensure adequate ventilation, basement windows should be kept closed during damp, muggy weather and opened on clear, dry days.

STRESS ON FOUNDATION

Foundation or basement walls are subject to a wide variety of stresses and strains. The base of the wall, being in the ground, maintains a fairly constant temperature. The top portion, however, extends out of the ground and is subject to extreme temperature changes from summer heat to winter cold, which causes concrete and other masonry to expand and contract.

The nature of the soil upon which the foundation is placed might cause slight settlement, which would create additional stresses.

A combination of these forces may cause some minor cracks to appear. It is important for the home owner to understand that these surface cracks do not affect the strength of the wall in any way, and it is unnecessary to repair them except for a "touch-up" to improve their appearance.

Masonry basement walls, like every other part of the house, are not waterproof in themselves. Where conditions warrant it, your builder will have damp-proofed the underground portions of your foundation.

Co-Ordinate Color Inside and Out

Whether a house is new or old, don't overlook the importance of color.

Consider the outside and inside as related areas and coordinate their colors carefully. An abrupt change in color between the exterior and interior can lead to "color shock," an undesirable psychological sensation, says a color expert.

Choose the roof color first and choose it carefully, since other colors inside and out should be related to it. The roof actually becomes the exterior colors are the limit.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Q. Is it too late to sow cauliflower seed? M.A., Victoria.

A. Yes, the young plants should be set out into the garden by the first of August. You may still be able to purchase a few plants, although stocks are low by now.

Q. I planted a dozen chinchincherine bulbs this spring and only three came up. Are they hard to grow? Mrs. M.W. Duncan, B.C.

A. The bulbs known as chinchincherine (Ornithogalum thrysoides) should be fairly large and firm when planted into pots of rich, well-drained soil. This is best done in September or October. If stored out of soil over winter, the bulbs soften and lose their vitality. The pots should have large holes, covered with at least a half inch of broken pot, and the soil kept fairly moist until growth begins.

Q. My chrysanthemum plants don't seem to be doing well this year. Last year they did much better, although they were very small when I bought them in the spring. No Name, Victoria.

A. Chrysanthemums grow best from freshly rooted cuttings each year, or at least from small divisions of the new growths, each with roots, made in early spring. They are heavy feeders, and need to be planted annually in soil enriched with rotted compost, old cow manure and peat moss.

Pinching of the growths at least once about the end of May is needed for garden varieties, to induce branching.

Farmer Grows His Home

BY DOUGLAS GRIPP
United Press International

TROUT LAKE, Wash. (UPI)—Tree farmer John Madison takes the do-it-yourself idea very, very seriously. In fact, he's taken it about as far as it can go.

Madison is building a new frame home for his family in the shadow of snow-topped Mt. Adams, the 12,307-foot peak about 40 miles north of the Columbia River.

"To which you might very well say, so what? Lots of people build their own frame homes. That's true, but do they raise their own timber for the house, harvest the trees and saw them into lumber in a one-man sawmill?" Madison does.

EVEN FURNITURE

He goes even farther than that. Bolts from cedar trees he is growing will be split and used as shingles for the roof. Even some of the furniture for the new house will be fresh from the tree farm—via Madison's carpenter's bench.

A barn already built on the property was constructed with timber from adjacent trees, ponderosa pine, fir, larch and cedar.

Madison has a thrifty bent. Wood shavings from his planer go into the cow barn for use as bedding material and other leftovers are used for firewood.

SUSTAINED YIELD

In cases where there is a definite seepage through the basement wall, it can be arrested—if it is not too severe—by the application of portland cement paint.

Here are some ways you can control condensation in your home:

1. Install exhaust fans in kitchen, bath and laundry to carry off excessive humidity.

2. Open windows in laundry rooms while washing and drying clothes.

3. Open windows in bathroom when showering or washing clothes.

Every home owner should be alert to the tell-tale signs of condensation and take prompt action to prevent moisture from causing damage to his home.

What's it like to have your house in the middle of a tree farm? Madison, his wife Veronica and their daughter Sheila, 12, are sold on it. They have more shade and fresh-air than they will ever need.

And landscaping is no problem at all. You merely cut out what you don't need!

Watch the onion crop. As soon as leaves show signs of yellowing, bend over the tops and cease watering. The onion bulbs should be fully exposed

BEASTALL ADVISES

Home Garden Seed Savers Embark on Tricky Process

By JACK BEASTALL

At the turn of the century most grandmothers gathered the seed of their favorite flowers from the plants already growing in their gardens.

This was a necessary part of gardening because seed was not as easy to come by as it is today, and a marked difference in quality was to be found among the offerings of different growers.

Once a satisfactory strain was obtained, it was common practice to save the seed from the best plants each year and so maintain, and sometimes improve, the quality of the stock.

Twenty years later, the men-folk were still growing their own seed of certain vegetables. Even at this late date uniform, high quality seed was obtainable only from a few world renowned growers and the price was high enough to put it in the luxury class.

Therefore, an investment in a packet of good seed had to spread over many years, and the strain was maintained, or improved, by the careful selection of the plants entrusted to continue the stock.

Many strains of both vegetables and flowers were greatly improved in the hands of amateur gardeners, and some of these eventually found their way back to the commercial growers and became standard in commerce.

SELF-POLLINATING

This is true of all the cabbage family and the closely related cruciferous weeds, also the cucurbits which include squash, marrows, cucumbers, pumpkins and melons.

Flowers which are hooded, such as those on peas and beans, are usually self-pollinated, and for that reason will produce seed which is worth saving.

Many gardeners save the seed of beans and peas although few follow a procedure which will maintain or improve the quality of the strain.

Keep observation of minute details, a notebook for listing these observations, a supply of semi-permanent labels, and a good strain of named seed, are needed at the outset.

The plants grown from the new seed are carefully checked each week and notes made on habit of growth, time of flowering, quantity of flowers to a plant, size of pods, texture of pods (beans) or number of seed (peas), and the number of days from seeding to the best condition for picking.

CHARACTERISTICS

These plants are known as hybrids or crosses. Most gardeners have become familiar with them through the varieties of sweet corn such as Spencross, Golden Cross, Banland, Carmelcross and many others.

This information gives us the characteristics of the strain with which we started. Plant labels are attached to the plants and coded to correspond with the observations in the notebook.

From the plants most nearly alike in all respects are selected the strongest and thriftiest to bear the seed which is to be saved. Outside the odd pod removed for sampling, no pods are removed from these plants, and the number of pods produced are limited to the quantity of seed needed to be saved.

From the plants most nearly alike in all respects are selected the strongest and thriftiest to bear the seed which is to be saved. Outside the odd pod removed for sampling, no pods are removed from these plants, and the number of pods produced are limited to the quantity of seed needed to be saved.

At the turn of the century most grandmothers gathered the seed of their favorite flowers from the plants already growing in their gardens.

This was a necessary part of gardening because seed was not as easy to come by as it is today, and a marked difference in quality was to be found among the offerings of different growers.

Once a satisfactory strain was obtained, it was common practice to save the seed from the best plants each year and so maintain, and sometimes improve, the quality of the stock.

Twenty years later, the men-folk were still growing their own seed of certain vegetables. Even at this late date uniform, high quality seed was obtainable only from a few world renowned growers and the price was high enough to put it in the luxury class.

Therefore, an investment in a packet of good seed had to spread over many years, and the strain was maintained, or improved, by the careful selection of the plants entrusted to continue the stock.

Many strains of both vegetables and flowers were greatly improved in the hands of amateur gardeners, and some of these eventually found their way back to the commercial growers and became standard in commerce.

SELF-POLLINATING

This is true of all the cabbage family and the closely related cruciferous weeds, also the cucurbits which include squash, marrows, cucumbers, pumpkins and melons.

Flowers which are hooded, such as those on peas and beans, are usually self-pollinated, and for that reason will produce seed which is worth saving.

Many gardeners save the seed of beans and peas although few follow a procedure which will maintain or improve the quality of the strain.

Keep observation of minute details, a notebook for listing these observations, a supply of semi-permanent labels, and a good strain of named seed, are needed at the outset.

The plants grown from the new seed are carefully checked each week and notes made on habit of growth, time of flowering, quantity of flowers to a plant, size of pods, texture of pods (beans) or number of seed (peas), and the number of days from seeding to the best condition for picking.

CHARACTERISTICS

These plants are known as hybrids or crosses. Most gardeners have become familiar with them through the varieties of sweet corn such as Spencross, Golden Cross, Banland, Carmelcross and many others.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q. Can you recommend a good adhesive that I can use in installing asphalt tile?

A. This department can't recommend by brand, but you might consider one of the new, non-toxic, nonflammable brush-on adhesives. They're easy to apply and are a real boon to the handy man.

Q. What is a good paint to use on rattan furniture?—L.L.

A. Paint spoils the natural finish. Use spar varnish to renew its appearance.

Business Stays Near Par Despite Woodsmen Strike

By HAL MALONE
Times' Business Editor

"How's business? What business? I haven't seen any."

This was the reaction of one Victoria store owner today. He had been asked the state of his cash register since the wood workers and the forest industries decided, 35 days ago, that they could do without each other.

Over all the survey showed most businesses are better off than the lone merchant who claims his business has gone on vacation.

For instance . . . A jeweller: "There has been some slowing down, particularly in the more expensive lines. If this strike carries on we'll feel it right through to Christmas. Many customers are looking but putting off buying until they get back on the job."

Men's wear operator: "Credit accounts are slow. Our book keeper has a pile of them and it is growing every day. Cash sales are fairly good. We put on a sale recently and moved more goods than we did at the same time last year."

Hardware and Appliances: "I'm quite surprised at the business we've done. We expected a drop after the strike. But it hasn't happened yet. White sales (refrigerators, stoves, laundry equipment) are far lower than usual."

FEW DEFAULTS

"We've had few credit defaults. Most people tell us if they can't meet their payments and we make allowances."

"As long as they are reasonable, we are."

Baldies wear: "Naturally we're feeling the effects of the strike. It could be worse. What we are worried about more is the after-effect. By the time many customers get back to work they'll be so far behind in other payments they'll delay clothing purchases as long as they can. Our credit accounts are in fair shape. Honest people pay their debts. You can't pay what you don't have and we take that into consideration."

Department store: "I don't know whether the strike caused it or not but in the last two weeks of July we were like Grant's Tomb. We tried every promotion we could think of but we couldn't pull them in. Sales picked up in the last week but not nearly as much as we would have liked. The first two weeks in July were terrific. We thought it would be a record month. Then the slowdown hit us."

Service station operator: "You can tell there's a strike on. No more 'Fill 'er up' by my customers on strike. They are buying gas in dribs and drabs. Many are trying to fix their cars instead of having us do it."

"By the time the strike ends," he laughed, "many of the amateur do-it-yourself mechanics will be bringing their cars in to us and we'll have a real headache unravelling their mistakes."

Other firms told the same story . . . no money, no purchases. Stores dealing in appliances normally see sales taper off in the summer. This summer sales didn't taper. They practically died.

TOURISTS HELP

Annual tourist invasion has helped to pick up the volume of some businesses. Even here there is a trend to buying small, inexpensive items.

A jeweller attributed this to "the different kind of tourists coming here."

"I've noticed most Americans this year are driving five, six or seven-year-old cars. Used to be practically every American had a current model or maybe last year's. Not any more."

The jeweller said he noticed the same thing on a recent trip through the Okanagan.

"Every garageman I talked to said the same thing. Not only are they getting a different breed of American tourist, but there are fewer of them this year than before. One garageman said B.C. cars outnumbered Americans by a wide margin."

Publicity bureau director George Warren says the tourist influx is about the same as last year. Auto traffic at Sidney is up 4 per cent. Foot passenger traffic is almost equal to 1958.

Unfortunately, says Warren, tourists aren't staying around as long as they used to. This means they are spending proportionately less.

In some cases it's too much less for comfort.

Average Wages In Industry Show Increase

OTTAWA (CP) — Average weekly earnings in Canadian industry advanced to $73.84 from $73.26 in April, the bureau of statistics has reported. The 12-month rise from $70.76 in May last year indicated an average monthly gain of 25 cents.

Average weekly earnings rose by more than $3 over the year in New Brunswick, Ontario, Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia, and by lesser amounts in the other provinces.

Rio Tinto Signs Option With Trojan

TORONTO (CP) — Rio Tinto Canadian Explorations Ltd. has announced an option agreement with Trojan Consolidated Mines Ltd. of Vancouver, giving Rio Tinto exploration rights on Trojan's property in Highland Valley, B.C., with the intention of bringing the property into production.

A Rio Tinto crew starts work on the more than 100 claims of Trojan this week preparing for a geophysical survey.

NEWSMAN HEADS PARTY

Labor Dominates Nfld. Election

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Labor dominated the Newfoundland election campaign Friday. There was every indication it would remain the paramount issue.

The CLC-approved Newfoundland Democratic party announced the selection of Ed Finn, Jr., former managing editor of the Corner Brook Western Star, as party leader. And Progressive Conservative leader Malcolm Hollett said CLC vice-president Stanley Knowles has made remarks calculated to hurt organized labor in Newfoundland.

He said the fund is being used to meet legal expenses as a result of the Jan. 1 strike of the International Woodworkers of America (CLC) and for strike pay.

Polio Flares*At Case a Day

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Newfoundland's polio epidemic appears to be continuing unabated with two more children admitted to hospital here, bringing the 1959 case total to 37. One child has died.

A hospital spokesman said the condition of the two children was "not so good." Others being treated were believed to be recovering. About 12 are in iron lungs.

The health department brought iron lungs in from Halifax and Montreal. Cases have been reported at an average of about one a day since the outbreak started during the July 4th weekend.

"I am not a politician when I see the mess the professional politicians have made of Newfoundland affairs. I think my lack of experience as a politician will be more of an asset than a liability."

VICTORIA, B.C., SATURDAY, AUGUST 8, 1959 15

... HERE
AND THERE ...
With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Touring Nevada with his parents, nine-year-old Paul Smith of Myrtle Street, Victoria, nearly broke the bank at Las Vegas (Nevada), last weekend. He also broke the laws of the state.

His father, Petty Officer Jack Smith, RCN, gave him a dime to buy some candy. Paul innocently popped the coin into an automatic gaming machine and, with a great whirling and jangling, the machine opened its steel trap to disgorge a silvery flood of 200 dimes.

Up rushed a white-faced manager. "No one under 21 is allowed to play those machines," he said.

So Paul and his parents, with Debbie his younger brother, hurriedly scooped up their $20 worth of dimes and made tracks for California.

Just back from a trip to Vancouver, auto salesman Jerry Owens says you can get anything you want aboard a Princess steamer except a glass of water.

You are never too old or too young to play the bagpipes, says Pipe Major Ian Duncan, director of the Greater Victoria Schools Pipe Band.

"It's not like blowing up balloons," he explained. "It's a method of co-ordinating your breathing with your finger movements. Good pipers never wear out."

Two of the oldest in Victoria are Jock Low, 75, and Donald McLean, 74. True they no longer compete for trophies but they have lots of fun scaring the birds on Burns Night.

That new government picnic site at Goldstream Flats, near the Malahat, looks like becoming another UN. Visitors' book already records tourists from Sweden, Switzerland, France, England, Canada and the Americas.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A six-week swim class in Kinsmen Gorge Park for youngsters aged eight to 12 will end Monday with final examinations of the 161 class members at 10 a.m.

Red Cross trained instructors have been giving the children two lessons a week, sponsored by the Victoria Kinettes.

Frederick Basanta, no fixed address, was sentenced in Oak Bay court Friday to six months in jail on each of two charges of false pretences involving cheques. He had pleaded guilty.

Final performance this season of Jerry Gosley's Smile Show will take place at Langham Court Theatre, Rockland Avenue, tonight at 8.15.

Options have been taken by W. J. Cockrell and Roy Bulloch of Medicine Hat on Brenta Lodge and the Anchorage, well-known fishing and resort establishments, it was learned here Friday.

Neither Capt. Don McKay of Brenta Lodge or Capt. Eric Barnes of the Anchorage would comment on the transactions.

TUDOR HOUSE TAVERN SOLD FOR $260,000

An Esquimalt landmark which began as a sailor's home and was later converted to a beer parlor has been sold for $260,000.

Sale of Tudor House, 533 Admirals Road, was announced today by W. E. Higbie, a director with W. L. Gouge and M. R. Hutchinson of Tudor Holdings Ltd. which owned and operated the business for the last four years.

New owners are Mickey Pierce, Sid Roitman and John Hromyk.

Mr. Roitman estimated $35,000 will be spent to remodel Tudor House.

Princess Here This Afternoon

Princess Alexandra of Kent, princess' visit to Victoria will be entirely informal and no official engagements are planned.

The princess leaves Victoria Tuesday morning to resume her flight to Australia. She will fly to Canberra in a Qantas Super Constellation via Honolulu and Fiji, where she is to make an overnight stop.

Her only scheduled public appearance in Victoria will be at the 11 a.m. Sunday morning service at Christ Church Cathedral.

The princess took off from London airport in a Comet jet airliner this morning on the first stage of her royal tour of Australia with a four-day stop over at Government House.

She was seen off by her mother, the Duchess of Kent, and her 17-year-old brother, Prince Michael.

Also at the airport were Canadian high commissioner George Drew; Australian high commissioner Sir Eric Harrison, and Mom Luang Malakul, the Thai ambassador.

QUEEN REPRESENTED

The Queen, who is vacationing at Balmoral Castle in Scotland, sent a lord-in-waiting, Lord Chesham, to bid her young cousin farewell.

The princess is flying across Canada from Goose Bay, Labrador, arriving at Vancouver at 4:30 p.m. She then transfers to an RCAF plane for the flight to Port Bay.

The fast drive to Government House will be via the Pat Bay Highway, Douglas Street, Fort Street and Cook Street, with a slow drive up Rockland Avenue.

Government officials say the

DAYS OF ADVENTURE NOT YET OVER

Four Victorians Among Navy Graduates

Graduating officer cadets at HMCS Venture, Esquimalt, won the admiration of a thousand spectators Friday with a splendid display of control, co-ordination and precision.

In blazing sunshine they performed (with never a slip) the intricate marches, drills and exercises that are a traditional part of naval graduation cere monies.

Defence Minister George Pearkes, VC, commended them on a fine performance, and said:

ENTERING NEW ERA

"Don't let anyone tell you the days of adventure are over. We are entering a new era and there are wonderful things ahead of you."

"I cannot see just what the future will bring but I am confident you will have an adventurous and interesting life at sea."

Mr. Pearkes said Canada's navy is now an anti-submarine navy. It must know what is going on under the sea and have surface ships capable of dealing with an undersea enemy as well as aircraft operating with all services.

"Good luck to you all," he said.

BELGIAN VISITORS

Mr. Pearkes occupied the reviewing stand with Rear Admiral H. S. Rayner, Flag Officer Pacific Command, and Capt. D. W. Groos, commanding officer, HMCS Venture.

Seated nearby were Belgian Defence Minister Arthur Gil son and Mrs. Gilson; Belgian Ambassador Jacques de Thier and Mrs. Thier; Commodore L. J. J. Robins, chief of naval staff, Belgian Navy, and Mrs. Robins, and other members of the Belgian delegation to Canada.

Mr. Pearkes recalled that earlier in the day the Canadian warship HMCS Winnipeg had been formally handed over to the Belgian Navy, under the NATO assistance plan, and had been re-named the Dufour.

"On this splendid occasion it is appropriate that three of

Danger of Fire Worst on Island

Atmosphere Drying Out

A combination of dry air, cloudless skies and a brilliant sun was expected to push the thermometer to 80-degree levels here today, and to aggravate the forest fire hazard in the southern Island, now the worst in B.C.

"The air is cool, and temperatures will be in the high 60s where there is a sea breeze," said weatherman William Mackie, "but we can expect plenty of warmth in those areas away from the wind."

A weather disturbance lying across the northern end of Vancouver Island will move south, but it will do little but give 20-mile winds here Sunday afternoon, Mr. Mackie said.

WILL CONTINUE

Forestry officials said the southern Island fire hazard is high and close to extreme—only one in the province—and they anticipate a drying process expected to last two or three days.

The Vancouver Forest District, which includes the Island, has had 692 fires to date, compared with 572 in Kamloops, 199 in Nelson, 195 in Prince George and 47 in Prince Rupert districts.

Cost to the B.C. Forest Service to date is $411,657—a small amount when compared to last year's total at the same date of $2,435,972—but still higher than any other year in the last 10.

Estimated cost this week was $102,201, highest of any week this year.

Abandoned Lots Sold by Auction

Five partially completed houses and lots were auctioned for a total of $11,050 in Victoria county court Friday.

They were all part of a subdivision on Pearce Crescent near Lohbrunner and Blenkinsop and were apparently abandoned by 33-year-old contractor Alfred Aarsand, who is believed to have left Canada.

His car was found at Vancouver Airport.

Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane ordered the sale after George P. M. Payne, a creditor, filed a claim.

UNITED APPEAL OFFICIALS from Port Angeles, three on left, met Friday with Community Chest officials here, including Hugh Curtis, right, to work out arrangements for torch-bearing ski-athon to launch mutual drive for annual funds Sunday, Sept. 27. At least three skiers will leave Inner Harbor and Port Angeles at 2 p.m. carrying torches, emblematic of slogan "United, We Light the Way." U.S. drive officials are Mrs. R. P. Moore, Mrs. Maynard Fields and Capt. Loring Hyde. (Times Photo.)

Blaze Guts Upper Storey Of Interurban Road Home

Fire, which may have been started by an overheated chimney, gutted the two-room upper storey of a home at #756 Interurban Road shortly before 7 a.m. today.

Owner of the house, Alfred Ankhorn, had lighted the fire in the stove and was going back to bed when he saw flames coming from the roof.

Saanich fire department fought the blaze until about 10:30.

They laid 1,800 feet of hose from the nearest hydrant to the house, located on a hill back from the road.

There was no estimate of damage.

Interior of the main four rooms on the first floor were not affected by the blaze.

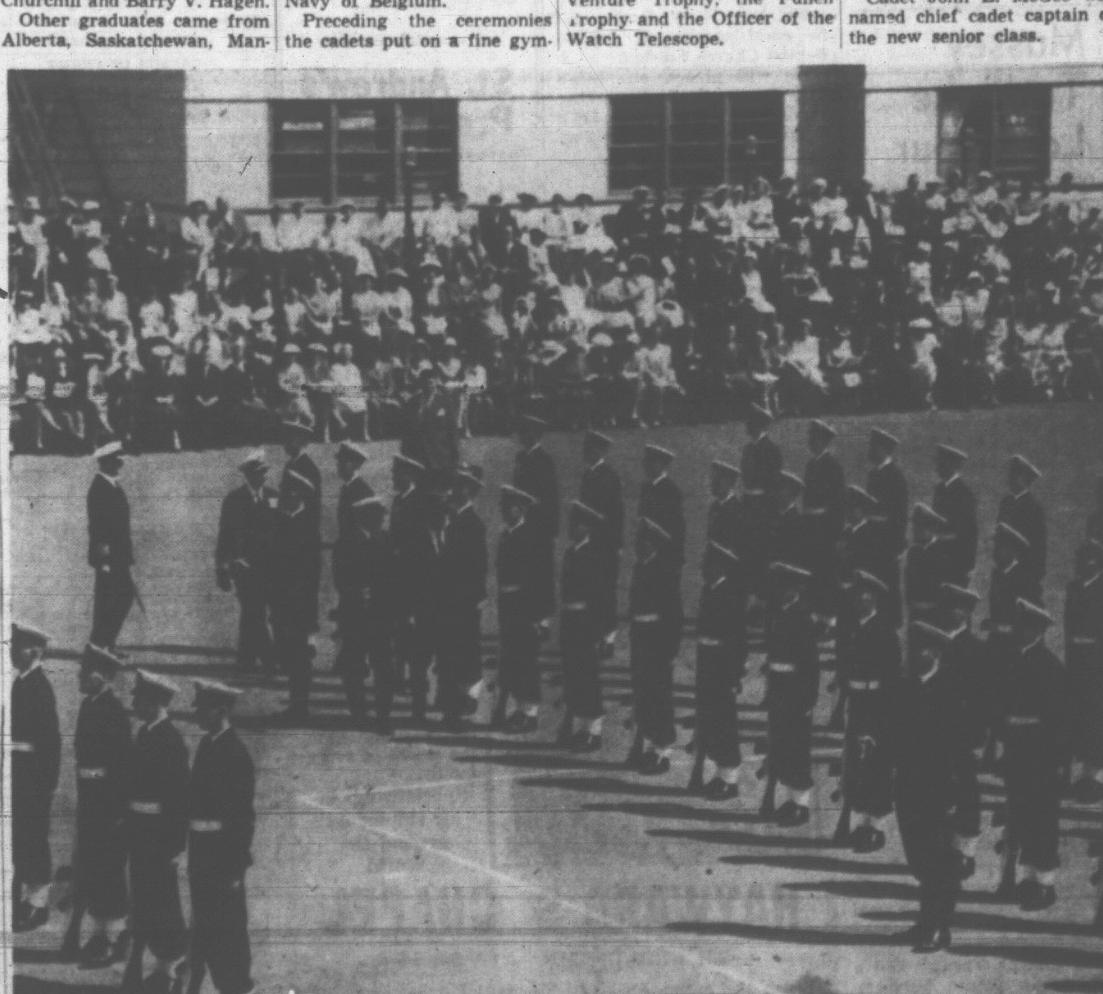

Mr. Ankhorn telephoned in the alarm before leaving the premises.

Two trucks and crews responded.

Cadet Capt. D. G. Bauder, Kingston, Ont., won the Officer's Sword.

Chief Cadet Capt. S. W. Brygadry won the Hampton Gray Shield; Cadet W. E. Hutchinson, Windsor, Ont., the Venture Officer Shield, and Cadet J. J. Cameron, Toronto, the Naden Trophy.

Cadet John E. McGee was named chief cadet captain of the new senior class.

Defence Minister G. R. Pearkes, VC, inspects 38 graduating officer cadets at HMCS Venture.

'P.R.' Bug Reaches Churches

NEW YORK (AP) — Public relations, the 20th-century technique of conveying an institution's story to the masses, is a major operation today in U.S. churches.

Among big denominations and little ones, the business has expanded at a phenomenal clip recently. The "P.R." representative has become a key figure in the ecclesiastical echelons.

"The field has grown tremendously in the last few years," said Dr. Ralph Stoddy, director of Methodist public relations and a veteran expert of the craft. "It's been a contagious thing, spreading from one group to another."

An estimated 1,000 specialists, many of them former newspaper or broadcasting professionals, now are employed by religious organizations in relaying information about their affairs to press, radio and television outlets.

BUDGET ITEM

Over-all church budgets for the work total more than $1,000,000, not counting larger sums used for production of religious TV and radio shows, as distinguished from the ordinary mechanics of channeling news to the mass media.

"The main growth has been in the last five years," said Dr. Marvin C. Wilbur, executive secretary of the National Religious Publicity Council, which itself has mushroomed from 300 to 500 members since 1957.

Their task, as the top practitioners see it, is to disseminate the facts about their churches.

"Our job is to supply all the answers, on both favorable and unfavorable news breaks in the church," said Erik Modem, an ex-sports writer and chief of the Lutheran News Bureau, one of the oldest such agencies in the country.

"We try to play it straight, with honesty, integrity and accuracy."

Many denominations have newly entered the field on a broad regular basis.

"It has become essential to the church to be articulate about its programs, goals and responsibility beyond the church itself," said Douglas A. Bushy, an ex-newspaper man and director of the Episcopal division of public relations.

LATE-COMER

Paradoxically, one of the late-comers in the field is the largest religious body in the U.S., the Roman Catholic Church. Its public relations service still is meager, in budget and manpower, compared with that of relatively tiny groups.

However, an astute, soft-spoken Franciscan priest, Rev. John E. Kelly, director of the Catholic Information Bureau of Washington, has been carrying on a persistent crusade to change the picture to the cheer of many newspaper religion editors.

Getting material about Catholic views and affairs has long been one of their obstacles, and numerous Catholic leaders have deplored the situation.

"The church often gives a cold shoulder to the reporter, the impression being that it is satisfied with exclusively private relations to the neglect of public relations," says Father Kelly.

INTO THE NORTH

Massey To Make Last Tour

OTTAWA (CP)—Governor-General Massey takes off Wednesday for his last major tour as the Queen's representative in Canada, a farewell trip that will take him inside the Arctic Circle a second time.

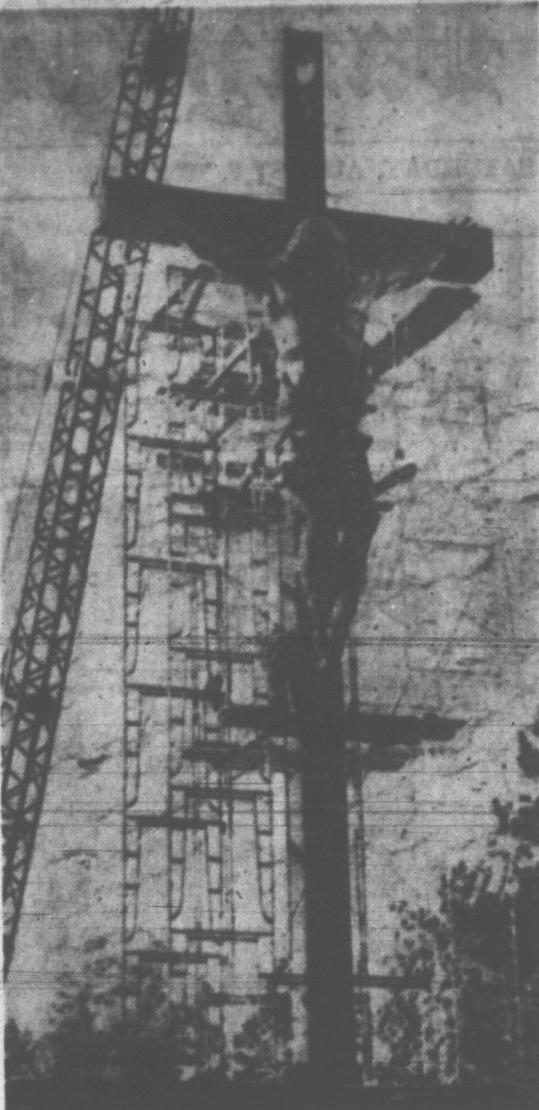

While less elaborate than his 1956 trip when he crossed over the North Pole by aircraft, Mr. Massey's visit to the Northwest Territories will take him as far north as Inuvik, a new townsite in the Mackenzie River delta near the Arctic coast.

Mr. Massey, now resting at his summer home at Port Hope, Ont., will fly to Vancouver from Trenton, Ont., Wednesday to attend events of the Vancouver International Festival.

Sunday, he will take off by plane for Fort Nelson, B.C., and seven communities in the Territories, McMurray, Alta., and Wlinsk, Ont., on the western shore of Hudson Bay.

In the Territories he will visit Hay River, Fort Providence, Fort Simpson, Bear River Camp, Norman Wells, Fort Norman and Inuvik.

In Vancouver, Mr. Massey will view an exhibition of the arts of French Canada, attend a performance of the play "Mary Stuart" at the International Cinema Theatre and a Takarazuka Dance performance. He will present awards of the film festival Saturday night, Aug. 15.

DESTROYING YOUTH

Cardinal Flays 'Corrupt' Books

TORONTO (CP) — Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York urges that "pictures and books which corrupt and destroy the moral fibre and ideals of youth . . . be eliminated if we are to discharge our sacred duties to our children."

The word freedom is perverted, he said, "when hypocrites apply this sacred term to prey on the weaknesses of unformed characters under the banner of 'freedom of speech,' or 'freedom of press'."

His eminence was addressing the annual international convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles here at which he was presented with the order's Ten Commandments Award.

"Who can measure the damage to the souls of our youth when our freedoms are violated by traitors of true liberty and are twisted and wrought by them into weapons for our own destruction?" he asked.

CALLED WITCH-HUNTERS

"Those who raise their voices in . . . order to protect our young from the vipers who feed upon and fill their pocketbooks from the demoralization of our children, are often accused of witch-hunting and censorship."

"But censorship there must be—censorship of the conscience—fashioned in the spiritual mould of the Ten Commandments."

The time had passed for passing more censorship laws. The only solution was for

Visitors' Day

Visitors' Day will be observed Sunday at the Church of Our Lord and Bishop D. A. Ranklor will preach at both services.

His subjects will be "Amidst Confusion—The Voice of God" and "God's Greatest Miracle."

SHOPPING GUIDE

Tinkle of Wind Chimes Magic Touch for Garden

By PENNY SAVER

Add a magical touch to your porch this August with a sparkling little wind chime chandelier. If you have an especially favorite corner of the garden, hang them up where faint summer breezes can catch little glass prisms so that they tinkle musically, adding a suggestion of fairytale to that flower-nook. They're made in the Orient, of dozens of different colored, and different shaped tiny glass sections. Each is painted with flowers; whole set hangs on pretty red frame. Various sizes are available. Smaller size costs 69 cents.

Set a lovely summer table with place mats made of bamboo. No washing or ironing needed with these pretties! If food is spilled, it wipes off with a damp cloth. Crumbs brush off in a second. They make good insulation too, no more worries of hot dinner plates scorching table. Set a beautiful patio lunch-table, with a set in natural, or cinnamon. Any shade of cool green is available, too, as well as greys, blues, yellows. These are extra sturdy stitched (some in gold or silver) to last a lifetime.

Economical too, a set of eight costs only $1.49.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Marathon Jolted Her Out Of Emotional Obesity

When I begin printing letters from women who created new figures for themselves with my S. W. E. E. K. Self-Improvement Marathon last winter, I became so enthusiastic that it is difficult not to publish all of them. Of course I cannot do that but here are a few last excerpts which you will be interested in.

"I have been dieting and exercising for one week. Following your chart my doctor worked out a diet for me. He examined me today and is as pleased as I with the results.

"I have lost one inch from the waist,  $\frac{1}{2}$  inch from the stomach and one from the hips.

"My doctor has explained to me that I don't gorge from hunger but from nervousness. He says I have been trying to solve problems and release tensions by eating. This chronic eating habit is why we are both so happy over the progress I have made in just one week. I am not even tempted to break over now."

It is a well-established fact that there is such a thing as emotional obesity, or finding comfort in food when unhappiness descends. Overeating also can be partly just a nervous habit, such as nail biting, foot swinging or smoking.

There are many success letters to quote from. Another reader says, "Dear Josephine Lowman: I just want to tell you that your Marathon booklet did wonders for me. Without the help of your booklet and that of a wonderful friend and neighbor I never could have done it!"

"This friend of mine was pregnant and her doctor did not want her to gain too much weight. It was really your booklet that started us talking about calories. We talked about them so much that we dreamed about them."

"My friend now has a wonderful baby boy weighing seven pounds and I am enclosing the last page of the Marathon booklet which has the chart to show you my progress."

This reader lost 23 pounds, and many inches from her measurements. I think that my readers are very gracious to write to tell me of their success.

If you missed Marathon last January and would like to have the Marathon booklet which gives you all necessary directions for a lovelier you eight weeks from now, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

DEAR ABBY . . .

A Very Delicate Point!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please settle a family argument once and for all: My husband has six married brothers and two married sisters. On different occasions we wives have to introduce one another to friends. I know that my husband's sisters are my sisters-in-law, and my husband's brothers are my brothers-in-law. But what about the women who are married to my husband's brothers? And the men who are married to my husband's sisters? What are they to me and how should they be introduced?

EVELYN.

DEAR EVELYN: Technically, only your husband's sisters are your sisters-in-law and the wives of your husband's brothers are your husband's sisters-in-law. But people who put out this fine distinction in making introductions, appear eager to remove the relationship as far away as possible. The wise wife accepts her husband's sisters-in-law as her own.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't think this question is too stupid to answer. I am a married man of 33, with black hair, brown eyes and dark complexion. My wife is 31 and she also has black hair, brown eyes and dark complexion. Our youngest child has blond hair, blue eyes and a fair complexion. The child is three years old. Is it too late to find out through a blood test whether this child is mine or not? Or does the blood test have to be taken when the child is an infant?

IN DOUBT.

DEAR IN: A blood test can be taken any time with equal success. The blood type of an individual never changes.

DEAR ABBY: My husband sells soft drinks at the Arena where they put on boxing and wrestling matches. He used to come right home from work. But lately he's been coming home at 3 and 4 in the morning. He told me that he's been driving a lady wrestler home and she invites him in for "coffee and." I told him I didn't think it was right. He said I didn't have to worry. What do you say?

SLIGHTLY JEALOUS.

DEAR SLIGHTLY: Don't worry about the coffee. It's the "and" that could give you the trouble. Get a full Nelson on your marriage and insist that your husband come directly home from work.

jobs well done, there wouldn't be so many women looking for conventions.

Conventions are loaded with women who have common problem—the desire to be needed, recognized and applauded.

I ought to know because I am one of those women. But I would gladly leave the conventions alone if only my husband would satisfy that need in me. Sincerely yours,

"ANOTHER CONVENTION HOUR."

DEAR ABBY: I have been wanting to write you my problem for a long time but I have been told that if I do not sign my name you cannot accept or answer my letter. My problem is so very personal that I would not want to have it printed anywhere. Please tell me through the paper if you accept letters without names. And what do you do with letters after you get them? MISS NO NAME.

DEAR MISS: I accept letters with or without names. I never print a person's name without permission. If a writer wants a personal reply to his letter he need only to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. All letters are strictly confidential and are destroyed after being answered.

Ceylon Day at Exhibition

Ceylon High Commissioner Sir Velupillai Coomaraswamy and Lady Coomaraswamy have accepted an invitation to attend this year's Pacific National Exhibition. They will come from Ottawa for Ceylon Day, Sept. 5, being recognized in the PNE's "Salute to the Orient" theme from Aug. 22 to Sept. 7. They will officially open the Ceylon Pavilion, and be guests of the PNE board of directors at a dinner in their honor.

To Kamloops

Leaving this weekend to attend the provincial convention of Catholic Women's League at Kamloops on Monday and Tuesday are Mrs. T. Taylor, national vice-president; Mrs. A. Smith, provincial secretary; Mrs. W. J. Sullivan, president Victoria diocesan council, and Mrs. P. C. Shaw.

Special Guests

Among guests at the recent wedding of Geraldine Margaret Doyle and Kenneth Maurice Keeble in Our Lady of Lourdes Church last week were several visitors from out of town. They included Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doyle and Mr. Gordon Doyle, Vancouver; Mr. Jay Doyle and Mrs. Viola Bulmer, Seattle. Also taking part in the wedding ceremonies were Mr. Don O'Conor, Mr. Wayne Keeble and Mr. Frank Doyle Jr.

In Duncan

Mr. and Mrs. K. P. Bratvold of Duncan, B.C., are announcing the engagement of their youngest daughter, Betty Laurence, to Mr. Robert Christopher Halsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Halsey of Harpenden, Hertfordshire, Eng. The wedding will take place on Friday, August 28 at 8 p.m., in Duncan United Church with Rev. F. H. Golightly officiating. Miss Bratvold is a 1958 graduate of the Royal Jubilee Hospital School of Nursing.

Summer Visitors

Dr. and Mrs. D. C. Elliott and their children, Donnie and Wendy, spent last week in Victoria, the guests of Dr. Elliott's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Elliott, 30 Linden Avenue. They are now en route back to their home in Calgary with a short stay at Coeur de Alene in Idaho. Also a recent visitor at the Elliott home was Prof. Chris White of Bozeman, Mont.

Rear-Admiral Kenneth Dyer, chief of personnel, and Mrs. Dyer (centre), were present at the graduation ceremonies and were special guests at the tea hour party, the graduation supper and the dance. Pictured with them at Admirals

House in the afternoon are Rear-Admiral H. S. Rayner and Mrs. Rayner (at left) and Capt. D. W. Groos, commanding officer HMCS Venture, and Mrs. Groos.

All White Blossoms Decorate St. Mary's Church For Rooper-Chisholm Vows Today

White larkspur, gladioli, stocks and gypsophila filled tall standard baskets to create a floral setting for the wedding of Miss Lorna Chisholm and Mr. Geoffrey Godolphin Rooper, this afternoon at St. Mary's Anglican Church.

Baskets banked the chancel rail, the aisle through the choir and more of the white blooms adorned the memorial and altar.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Gavin Chisholm, and the groom is son of Mr. Lionel Rooper, and the late Mrs. Rooper. Canon Hywel Jones heard vows.

THE BRIDE

Miss Chisholm entered the church on the arm of her father. Her classic wedding gown of imported Chantilly lace posed over heavy ivory silk satin swept to a long formal train. Fitted bodice of the gown was designed with lily-point sleeves and portrait neckline delicately scalloped and edged with appliques of lace. A French silk illusion net veil floated to a full train over the gown. It was held with two tiny nosegays of fragrant stephanotis at either side of her head.

All-white bouquet was of stephanotis, roses and heather. Real pearls which had belonged to her grandmother and her mother were worn by the bride for the wedding.

HER ATTENDANTS

Ice-green organza-over-satin ensemble formed the bouffant skirted gowns of the three senior bridal attendants, Miss Christine Hunter, Miss Dorothy Peacock and Miss Barbara Hunt. Waists were caught in with wide green taffeta cummerbunds. Their transparent white mohair halo hats were tied with taffeta bows, and they carried bouquets of yellow marguerites and maidenhair fern.

Little Leslie Chisholm, four-year-old niece of the bride, was flower girl. Her gown was white organza over green, a miniature of the senior attendants. She wore a white mohair poke-bonnet and carried a bouquet of miniature daisies tied with green ribbons.

WELL KNOWN IN CITY

Mrs. Gordon McCurdy, a visitor in the city at present, is being much feted by her many friends. She is the guest at present of Mrs. W. J. Wilson and Miss Eve Wilson at their Terrace Avenue home. Later she will be the guest of Dr. and Mrs. T. H. Johns, Somass Drive, and then of Mr. and Mrs. Hart Henderson, Catford Road.

Summer Fairyland Setting At Venture Supper, Dance

By MARIE MILBURN

Two of the loveliest gardens in Victoria were settings for the supper and a ball for members of the graduating class of HMCS Venture and their partners following the afternoon graduation ceremonies yesterday.

Flower-edged lawns at the home of Lt.-Cmdr. C. A. Prosser and Mrs. Prosser on Beach Drive were lighted by flickering torches for the buffet supper.

Twinkling candles in tall candelabra and bouquets of summer blooms decorated the long buffet-style serving tables which were set under a marquee. Guests enjoyed view of Cadboro Bay, with its flotilla of boats in the Yacht Club basin, as they sat at small tables on the lower lawns.

Following supper the scene shifted to another garden fairyland setting, as sub-lieutenants and their partners, staff officers and their wives continued on to the Butchart Gardens for the ball.

Guests were greeted informally in the main reception room at "Benvenuto" by Mr. and Mrs. Ian Ross, Capt. D. W. Groos, commanding officer HMCS Venture, and Mrs. Groos, and by Sub-Lieut. C. A. Brygady and his partner, Miss Nora Wright.

Dancing was in three large rooms on main floor of the Butchart home. Senior officers were entertained in upstairs suite. During the evening, music was provided by members of HMCS Naden band.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Honoring Mrs. McCurdy

A number of parties have been planned to honor former Victorian, Mrs. G. McCurdy, who is at present visiting here from Toronto. On Sunday, Dr. and Mrs. Fred M. Corbett will give an early-evening supper in Mrs. McCurdy's honor at "Cresthaven," their home on Scoltan Road. There will be 18 guests. Next Thursday, Dr. and Mrs. T. H. Johns plan an evening party for Mrs. McCurdy. Guests will include many of her friends living in Victoria. Affair will be held at the Johns' Somass Drive home. Mrs. McCurdy was also honored last Thursday when Mrs. R. H. McDougall gave a tea to which members of Chapter Q. PEO Sisterhood were invited. Mrs. McCurdy is a former member of the chapter. Tea was given in the McDougall's Beach Drive home. There were 20 guests.

At Campbell River

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Graham, of Rancho, Santa Fe, Calif., and Mr. L. L. Lawler, Victoria, were recent visitors at Painter's Lodge, Campbell River. The Grahams also visited in Victoria for a few days before leaving today to return to their home in California.

Sketch Club

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hyndman entertained members of Victoria Sketch Club recently at "Featherland," where the guests sketched birds and animals during the afternoon gathering.

Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Peter C. Heinen, Victoria, celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary recently in the Somerset Avenue home of their son-in-law and daughter, Lt.-Cmdr. and Mrs. F. Lubin. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. F. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. C. Marklinger, Mr. and Mrs. J. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. John Martin, Mr. and Mrs. M. Marklinger, Mr. and Mrs. C. Tuson, Mr. and Mrs. F. Blow, Mr. and Mrs. L. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. William Norris, Mr. and Mrs. G. McCoy, Mr. and Mrs. P. Coombs, Mr. and Mrs. C. Lovelace, Misses Soley, Valerie, Betty Lubin, Nancy Mason, Denice Collier, and Dorsey Lubin, Peter Mason, Wayne Cooley and Ron McDermott.

Visitors

Dr. and Mrs. Don Jaquith are visitors in Victoria at present, the guests of Mrs. Jaquith's brother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Stark at their home on Prospect Place. The Jaquiths will leave again for their Toronto home at end of next week.

In our back yard I dug a

Maurice Humber hole,

It grew and grew . . . got out of control.

I ran into roots of old dead trees.

I banged with a mattock, down on my knees.

I struck big boulders, sparks flew around.

An old arrow-head . . . I was sure I found.

I went deeper 'n deeper, without much plan.

Till stopped cold, in the blue hard-pan.

For a year or so, I let it sleep.

So it gradually turned to a rubish heap.

Then in the spring, "she" said one day,

"Why don't you cart that old trash away?"

Then I dug some more and blistered each hand.

Slowly, again, it began to expand.

And "they" glowered at me, said I was a fool,

"NO ONE needed . . . such a B.I.G. lily-pool."

I ordered cement, plus a yard of sand.

They began to suspect what I had planned.

"I WOULDN'T swim in that," said our youngest daughter.

Besides, it wouldn't hold, half enuff water."

The G.F. joined in, wifey . . .

"We'll get water-lilies, and some nice gold-fish."

"Twas finally painted . . . called Capri blue.

On that last hot day, I was actually thru.

"They" had been shopping, and foot-sore,

They came 'round the back, and WHAT-AN-UP-ROAR???

When they saw me there, so calm and cool,

Floating about IN MY NEW SWIMMING POOL.

DAMPER ON DAD

Is Junior's father (above) one of many who is uncomfortable? Or is he just hot under the collar because Junior isn't helping him with his gardening? Junior is carrying an instrument with which he hopes to find out. You may wish to build one, too.

The apparatus in Junior's hands consists of two thermometers fastened to a milk container. One thermometer functions normally. The other is kept damp by a piece of gauze extending into the container where it is immersed in water (see inset).

To use this instrument in conjunction with the U.S. Weather Bureau's recently installed Discomfort Index, Junior takes two-fifths of the sum of the two temperatures registered, and adds the arbitrary figure of 15. If the result totals 70, 10 per cent of the population, including Dad, is uncomfortable; if the total is 75, more than 50 per cent is uncomfortable; above 80, everyone is uncomfortable.

Junior's simple hygrometer may not be wholly accurate, but it will provide an amusing insight on the new humidity sampling process.

PRESSING NEED FOR LINES

It's virtually impossible for the little girl picture above to continue her present task without having a certain object ready.

CIRCLE SPLITTER Suppose you were to find a small circle drawn upon a sheet of paper and were asked to find its centre.

You have a pencil and a ruler with which to work and nothing more, other than the paper itself.

How could you go about finding the circle's centre with reasonable accuracy?

Try thinking this out before consulting answer below. You may find the information useful some time.

ANSWER: 1. Find the mid-point of any diameter. 2. Find the mid-point of another diameter. 3. Draw a line through the two mid-points. This line is the perpendicular bisector of the circle's diameter. It passes through the center. 4. Find the point where the perpendicular bisector intersects the circle. This is the center.

SEW-IT-YOURSELF TOTE BAG

Junior misses can fashion their own tote bags to match individual ensembles. Only a rudimentary knowledge of sewing is required.

Materials: Cloth, ribbon, safety pins.

Cut a piece of cloth, about 20 inches long, by 8 inches wide. Sew a 2-inch hem on each short side. Turn ragged edges of each hem in about one-fourth inch, and hemstitch. Make a dividing line through middle of each hem, or fold, with small running stitches, one inch from top.

LETTER IS A CHALLENGE TO YOUTHFUL MINDS

Unless you can figure out the gimmicks, there's not much sense to the following problems involving this row of ones:

1. From the eleven ones above, take two to make ten, and make ten out of the remaining nine.

2. Take three from the eleven to make nine, and increase the remaining eight to thirty-five.

3. Without discarding any, reduce the eleven ones to nine.

4. Reduce the eleven ones to one.

As a hint, we'll reveal that the ill-fated letter was a "small" one.

CHECK - DOUBLE CHECK You have a lot of cash, and your friend Bill comes to you with a cheque for $200. You know it's good, so you agree to cash it for Bill. "How do you want it, Bill?" you ask.

"Well," says Bill, "I want a lot of twos—know I'm one guy who isn't superstitious about twos. Just gimme some ones, ten times as many twos, and the rest in fives."

You do as Bill asks. How many of each denomination do you give him?

ANSWER: 1. 10 ones, 10 twos, 10 fives, 1 ten.

IT'S YOUR MOVE

JUST ONE LEFT OVER

A puzzlist, asked how many pawns he had in his pocket, said: "If I divide them by 2, 3, by 4, by 5, or by 6, I always have one over." What was the smallest number he could have had?

ANSWER: 61. If you divide 61 by 2, 3, 4, 5, or 6, you get a remainder of 1.

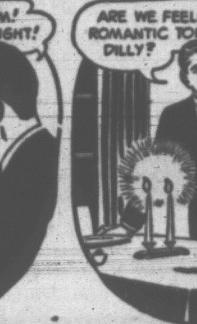

The catastrophic flood of the Hwang-ho River in China in 1887 took 900,000 lives.

Rich Soil, Full Sun For Grapes

Grapes need a rich soil and full sun.

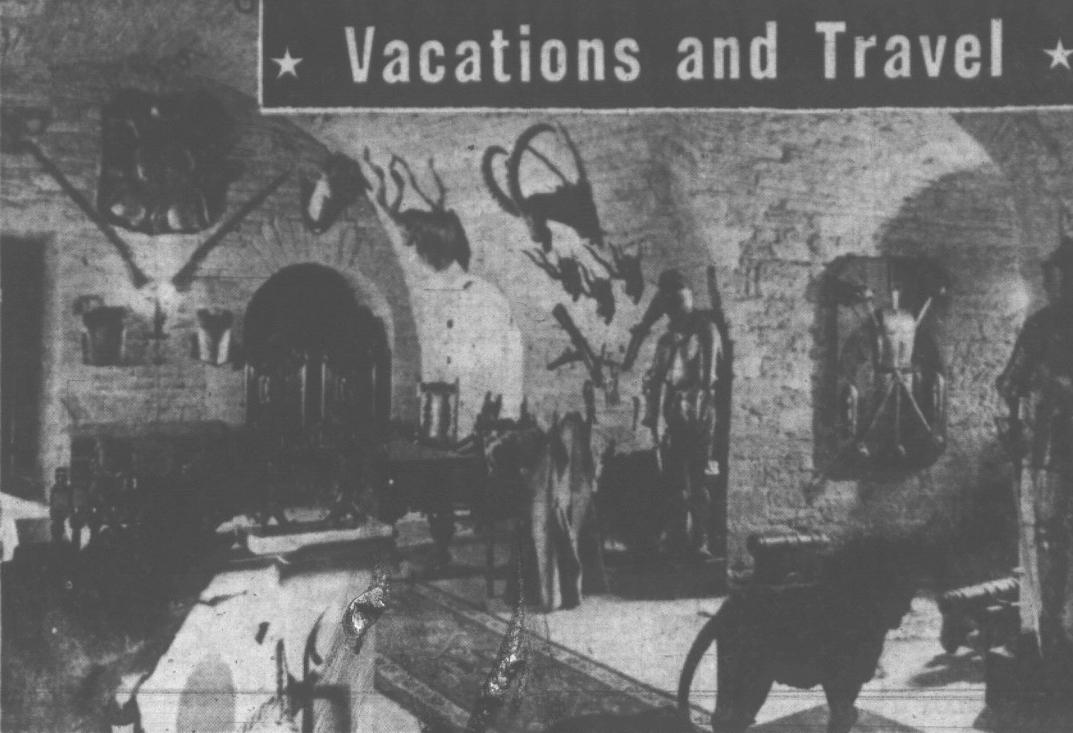

They should be heavily pruned every year if they are grown for fruit production.

The wood made the summer before is cut back, leaving only two or three buds for the new growth.

If fruit is not required, they may be allowed to grow rampantly and will cover several hundred square feet very quickly. Niagara, Portland and Campbell's Early are recommended for coastal gardens.

CRYPT IN FADED SCOTTISH CASTLE

One of the most magnificient castles in the British Isles is Glamis Castle, Angus, Scotland, home of the Earl of Strathmore. It is said to be the scene of Macbeth's murder in "Macbeth." Legend also says a "dead secret" is passed to each earl on his 21st birthday. Above is the castle crypt.

The Other Half

By DOROTHY PLANT

Indian Legends

Even before Lewis and Clark the Spaniards are supposed to have put ashore at the foot of Neahkahnie Mt. not far to the south. One of their ships, bound for Acapulco with a cargo of beeswax for religious candles, foundered here and the Indian legends persist that the crew unloaded a mysterious chest and buried it in the mountainside.

People have been digging at the hill for years, including a psychic reader who landed by plane not long ago and dug down to shovel up for all to avail. Bits of beeswax has been found however, by Lewis and Clark as by Astor's fur-trader expedition which founded Astoria in 1811. Rocks mysteriously marked with crosses are still implanted in the beach allegedly put there by the ship's crew, not the Chamber of Commerce.

In the lee of the Neahkahnie Mt. 530 feet above the breakers, stretches a broad causeway of sandy beach with a fury collar of deep green fir, spruce, and pine. Catching razor clams is the hot sport hereabouts for the clams take evasive action, and clam diggers are restricted to a daily limit of 24 per shovel. The Ocean Park Motel will store you overnight for about $16 the double room and bath, and there is a glass-bordered, heated swimming pool for those who dare not venture to the sea.

They are still rehearsing," says the man who takes my ticket.

Exciting

I find a seat and watch the rest of rehearsal. Three "men" are on stage, two in white tie and tails the third in the resplendent garb of an Indian potentate. As they run through their lines, scenery is being shifted into place behind them, hammers banging an obligato to their voices. An hour and four scenes later it seems incredible that in another 20 minutes this production will be ready to go on. But it is exciting to watch stage hands assemble lavish sets of Oriental splendor as three o'clock comes and goes. It is 3:40 p.m. when the curtain goes down on rehearsal and I wander into a tremendous lobby in search of food.

The rehearsal was more fun than the finished show, which ran without a hitch.

I am taken by Mr. Warren-Knot, British first consul, to the Bunraku theatre and introduced to Mr. Shuzaburo Hironaga who wrote a book on this unusual form of stagecraft in which the actors are puppets, half life size. It takes three men to manipulate the dolls who can move separate fingers, raise an eyebrow, laugh, cry, wink and are practically human. As the play goes on, you almost forget they are not and you cease to notice the black clad figures who manipulate them.

First stop on this night-life tour is a burlesque show and on my way out I see two busloads of elderly Japanese women, complete with kimono and obi, coming in to have a look. I find myself thinking I would like to have my camera.

Stepping into the darkened theatre my eyes went to the brilliantly lighted stage where a pony-line of about 50 Japanese damsels kick up their legs in a military routine. Their costumes are military, too: hats, shoes, dummy guns and a Sam Brown belt.

That's all, brother!

Real Tongue Twister

Visitors to Honolulu meet up with their first tongue-twisting name in Kalakaua Avenue, which runs along Waikiki. It was named for Chief David Kalakaua, who reigned from 1873 to 1891. Known as the "Merry Monarch," he built the present Iolani Palace. He loved extravagant living and once toured the world to get tips from other high-living rulers.

IT'S GOOD TO BE ON A WELL-BUILT SHIP

Leave the workday world behind and travel to the Pacific Island paradise you've always dreamed of seeing. No need to wait for the "right time" because the romantic spell of Hawaii lingers all year round.

The promise of "Aloha-Land" can be fulfilled for you on your two-week vacation. You can fly non-stop any Friday — spend three Saturdays there.

Even if the pocketbook is slim, don't let your dream vacation slip away. For as little as $25—that's 10% of your Special Tourist Excursion Round-Trip Fare—you can be in Hawaii on Canadian Pacific's Fly Now, Pay Later Plan. The other 50 weeks are more enjoyable, when you've spent 2 in Hawaii. Any argument to "stay-at-home" is feeble when you can prove to yourself how easily a dream vacation can come true.

$4 Million Hotel Start Soon

HAMILTON—Work is expected to begin soon on the long-proposed Southampton

It is understood that the Hilton Hotel Corp. seeks a 25-year lease to operate the combination hotel-cottage colony, which would overlook the picturesque South Shore.

The necessary financial backing reportedly had been secured for the $4,000,000 project, and the building work awaits only the final architectural plans.

Plans reportedly call for a 150-bedroom establishment which would cover approximately 36 acres in the Sinky Bay area of Southampton Parish.

Shakespearean scholars generally agree that the Bard made mid-Atlantic Bermuda the suggested island location of his famous play, The Tempest.

82 MISCELLANEOUS FOR SALE

EATON'S Warehouse Showroom 818 View Street

MONDAY, AUGUST 10, 1959

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—Take care you do not get into any arguments today that will take away from present security and inner happiness. Think and act objectively and don't be envious of anyone. A smiling exterior will work wonders for you.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Be on-guard for an overt act on the part of one who is simply expressing inner dissatisfaction and does not really mean to hurt you. Beat him or her to the punch kindly and you do not lose an otherwise valuable friend.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Slow down a bit now and labor with precision or you can have very serious little damages occur. Also, use caution with some fellow worker so that you avoid expensive accident. Strive for harmony through intelligent cooperation.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)—There seems to be a force at work to keep you from enjoying yourself today. Dissolve this opposition with the warmth of a genuine smile. However, evening is then free from stress and strain and you can relax, even at social affairs.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Do not give vent to ire or get into arguments at home because things are not quite as you would like to have them. Just remember that they could be worse, so be grateful and retain or restore harmony quickly. Be gentle, wise.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—You can avert accidents or expense by being very sure your automobile is running properly before you set out today. This applies to any other mechanical devices, too. Test for safety. Also, treat others gently. P.M. have fun with pals.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—A financial affair could trouble you if you permit. Use funds you have wisely and know that you can add to them appreciably by right action and firm application.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Keep a tight rein on your emotions now or you get into altercation with one who could harm you in some way. Think about such personal matters as health, wardrobe, appearance. Tend strictly to own affairs.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Secret worry really has you in a dither, but you must remember that stowing over what cannot be helped never helps at all. Put it behind you and dwell on most pressing affairs. This can still be a very productive day.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—A most persuasive individual could really get you in hot water if you pay any attention to what is being said. Don't get off the right track. Keep working diligently toward finest goals and all will be fine.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—If you gamble in any way today, you might lose the support you so need from an influential individual. Tend to civic affairs most diligently and you gain the respect from others that you need for your best interests.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Any diversion from important duties now would only cost you much loss and happiness. Be sure to follow through on what you have begun, though you lose out on some temporary pleasure—it is but a small disappointment.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN MONDAY . . .

The delightful child born Monday is the type who will get into one little mischief after the other in early youth, simply through need for experimentation, since the mind is very active here. Early get your child indoctrinated in some field where real wisdom of handling other persons is required. Excellent chart for the religious leader, scientist or where deep research work has to be done.

25,000 See Big Pageant By Mormons

PALMYRA, N.Y. (AP) — An estimated 25,000 spectators had perfect weather Thursday night for the opening of the three-day Mormon pageant, "America's witness for Christ," on the side of Hill Cumorah.

A cast of 300 portrayed scenes from the Bible and the Book of Mormon on stages built on the hillside. Spotlights illuminated the scenes and the words and music were broadcast by loud-speakers.

The Mormons, members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, are concentrated in the west today. But Hill Cumorah, 20 miles from Rochester, is where their faith tells them Joseph Smith received the Book of Mormon from the Angel Moroni 136 years ago.

R. A. UPWARD,
District Commissioner.

Save Public Market Meeting Will Urge

The Society for Preservation of the Public Market will hold a meeting Tuesday night at 8:30 in the Orange Hall and has invited the general public to attend.

Margaret Petersen, president, said today the society is getting more support daily.

Farmers as far away as the Cowichan Valley have written and telephoned urging that the market be saved, she said.

She said the society is urging retention of the market on the grounds that natural foods fresh from the earth are an important factor in diet for physical well being. City people today eat to much over-refined and poor quality foods, she claimed, and a farmer's market can play a big part in giving the public the things that are lacking.

Meanwhile Attilio Randy, 72-year-old Saanich farmer, has abandoned his "sit down" protest against demolition of the market.

But he will continue to fight to keep alive a municipally-sponsored public market there.

"I believe I can find enough potential stallholders through 22 southern Vancouver Island women's institutes to convince our city council the market should not be abolished," he said.

After camping two days and two nights at the public market building, Mr. Randy abandoned his sit-down Friday night.

"I saw no sense in spending a third night there when demolition might be days or even two weeks away. It would be a danger to myself and my health, and there is no one to look after my business."

"However, I think I have done something for the cause."

There are more than 30 universities in Canada and about 250 colleges affiliated with them.

BBC Deals City Bad Blow

Publicity Commissioner George Warren fairly hit the ceiling this morning when a BBC broadcast from London stated that Princess Alexandra will spend four days at "Government House, Vancouver—the capital of British Columbia."

"Coming direct from the heart of the Commonwealth this is absolutely disgraceful," thundered Mr. Warren. "The BBC is supposed to be a responsible body, yet it allows a gross inaccuracy like this to go out to the world."

"I spend half my life trying to convince people abroad—and even in eastern Canada—that Victoria, not Vancouver, is the capital of this province."

Mr. Warren promptly dispatched a recriminatory letter to Broadcasting House, headquarters of the BBC in London.

Soon after, Reuters World News Service circulated a correction to an earlier dis-

Stuart Campbell Mitchell, a familiar figure in Victoria for the past 20 years, died in Vancouver Wednesday at the age of 81 years.

Mr. Mitchell came to Victoria in 1938 and lived at the Dominion Hotel from 1941 to 1958, when a slight stroke forced his retirement from an active business life, latterly with Hebdon Printing Co. Ltd.

Police Probing Rumored Theft Of 'Thousands'

City police today refused to confirm or deny investigations into embezzlement, allegedly by an accountant, of funds believed to total several thousand dollars in a Victoria real estate-financial house.

Chief John Blackstock, however, indicated no information would be divulged until "necessary steps" are taken.

Officials of the real estate board had no information on the alleged embezzlement.

But, from other sources, it was learned most of the money, believed to total under $20,000, had been recovered.

Manager of the business was also keeping mum on the subject, and said only "no comment" when approached.

Two Luxton men who pleaded guilty to a charge of committing public mischief were each sentenced by Magistrate Ostler in city police court today to a fine of $40 and in default, seven days.

Donat Falardeau, 29, and Thomas Lamb, 38, Lippincott Road, removed red lanterns from barricades around an excavation in Broad Street, between Pandora and Johnson at about 6:15 a.m. Thursday.

Lamb, who also admitted permitting a motor vehicle to remain unattended with the key left in the ignition, was also fined $10.

Laos Invasion Feared As Red Troops Mass

LET'S BE FRIENDS MR. K TELLS U.S.

LONDON (Reuters)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev has sent a message to United States Vice-President Nixon declaring that the Soviet people and government are unanimous in their sincere desire to establish friendly relations with the United States just as with all other countries, the Soviet news agency Tass said today.

The Russian Premier's message was in reply to one from Nixon expressing thanks in connection with the vice-president's Moscow visit.

"I share the hope that such visits and meetings, accompanied by friendly and sincere exchanges of views, will help to establish better relations between our two countries," Khrushchev said.

"I hope that further exchange of visits by the top leaders of our two countries will be even more fruitful as regards the elimination of international frictions and the resolute consolidation of peace in the interests of all nations."

Ike Plans Wide European Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today broadened plans for his trip to Western Europe to include talks with Italian Prime Minister Antonio Segni and two top officials of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Separate meetings with the NATO officials and the Italian prime minister will take place in Paris after Eisenhower ends conferences with French President Charles de Gaulle.

Fish Nets Out Again Sunday

British Columbia's 5,000 salmon net fishermen are returning to the fishing grounds today after a two-week strike and 4,000 other workers in the industry will return to work as soon as they are called.

The United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union (Ind.) announced the return to work late Friday night, only a few weeks before the fishing season is due to pass its peak.

Members of the union and the Native Brotherhood of B.C., representing Indian fishermen, voted overwhelmingly in favor of accepting a final wage-price offer by the Fishers Association of B.C.

Horner Stevens, secretary of the UFAWU, said salmon fishermen can leave for the grounds anytime although they may not fish until 6 p.m. Sunday. Shoremen in canneries and tendermen—the workers who shuttle the fish from the boats to the plants ashore—can go back to work as soon as they are called.

They were on their way home from a visit with Mrs. Tandy's mother. Tandy stopped the car and got out to put out the fire, telling his wife to call the fire department.

She drove to a nearby all-night filling station to turn in the alarm and drove back to help her husband.

"I drove around the block past the building. The last time I saw my husband he had an axe in his hand and was trying to break into a truck, apparently in an attempt to move it.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—One of the top segregationist leaders today threatened a "buyer's strike" against downtown merchants if high school integration comes as scheduled Wednesday.

If one Negro even attempts to attend a white high school," said Amis Guthridge, "we are calling on the people of every school district in Arkansas to stage a buyer's strike against Little Rock Main Street merchants, and against every firm that employs even one Negro."

Guthridge, lawyer for the segregationist Capital Citizens Council, also said his organization planned other actions in connection with integration, but couldn't disclose them.

Attack Looms From Viet Nam

VIENTIANE, Laos (Reuters)—The Laotian Army today reported a "massive concentration" of Communist North Vietnamese troops along the mountainous Laos-North Viet Nam border.

Jungle war broke out a week ago between Laotian troops and pro-Communist guerrillas in the northern provinces of this Indo-Chinese kingdom.

A statement issued by army headquarters said the report of massive concentration was received from a Laotian commander in the troubled northern province of Sam Neua.

The statement added that the Communists were believed preparing a big offensive to regain control of the province, formerly controlled by the pro-Communist Laotian Patriotic Party.

FORCE RETURN

It added that the purpose of the Communist move was to force the return of the international commission established under the Indochina Ceasefire Agreement signed in Geneva in 1954.

The agreement, ending the war between the French and Communist guerrillas, provided for division of Viet Nam into Communist north and pro-Western south and true supervision for neighboring Laos and Cambodia.

The true supervisory commission—Canada, India and Poland—suspended its operations a year ago. Laos says that if the commission returns it will lead to Communist subversion in the country.

Loyal Laotian forces have reported seven officers and 300 men killed defending northern army posts from rebel attacks. Laos says the rebels are aided by the North Vietnamese.

INDIAN REDS BLAST REGIME

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—The Indian Communist party's central executive committee today passed a resolution condemning the Laotian government for its "virtual repudiation of the Geneva agreements and its refusal to permit resumption of the activities of the international supervisory commission headed by India."

The resolution accused the Laotian government of having unleashed civil war "acting in collusion with American advisers."

She Might Have Told Shetlands

LERWICK, Shetland Islands (AP)—Tom Johnston says the least the Queen could have done is tell him she's expecting a baby.

"One would have thought that those of wisdom who guide the Queen could have foreseen this possibility and avoided all this trouble," said Johnston, town clerk of Lerwick.

TUDOR HOUSE TAVERN SOLD FOR $260,000

An Esquimalt landmark which began as a sailor's home and was later converted to a beer parlor has been sold for $260,000.

Sale of Tudor House, 533 Admirals Road, was announced today by W. E. Higbie, a director with W. L. Gouge and M. R. Hutchinson of Tudor Holdings Ltd. which owned and operated the business for the last four years.

New owners are Mickey Pierce, Sid Roitman and John Hromyk.

Mr. Roitman estimated $35,000 will be spent to remodel Tudor House.

Princess Here This Afternoon

Princess Alexandra of Kent, pretty 22-year-old cousin of the Queen, will be welcomed by Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross at Patricia Bay airport this afternoon at 5:15 and will drive with him to Government House.

Her only scheduled public appearance in Victoria will be at the 11 a.m. Sunday morning service at Christ Church Cathedral.

The princess took off from London airport in a Comet jet airliner this morning on the first stage of her royal tour of Australia with a four-day stopover at Government House.

She was seen off by her mother, the Duchess of Kent, and her 17-year-old brother, Prince Michael.

Also at the airport were Canadian high commissioner George Drew; Australian high commissioner Sir Eric Harrison, and Mom Luang Malakul, the Thai ambassador.

QUEEN REPRESENTED

The Queen, who is vacationing at Balmoral Castle in Scotland, sent a lord-in-waiting, Lord Chesham, to bid her young cousin farewell.

The princess is flying across Canada from Goose Bay, Labrador, arriving at Vancouver at 4:30 p.m. She then transfers to an RCAF plane for the flight to Portage.

The fast drive to Government House will be via the Pat Bay Highway, Douglas Street, Fort Street and Cook Street, with slow drive up Rockland Avenue.

Government officials say the

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Jonquiere, New Waterford return 10 a.m. Aug. 28.

Fraser, Margaree return 4 p.m. Aug. 27.

Sheena returns Aug. 15.

DAYS OF ADVENTURE NOT YET OVER

Four Victorians Among Navy Graduates

The graduating cadets today are citizens of Belgium," he said.

These were Jean Ceuz, Siegfried Deleu and Claude Siedeney.

The Belgian cadets completed their two-year Venture training course under an NATO agreement and will now return to their homeland for service with the Royal Navy of Belgium.

Defence Minister George Pearkes, VC, commended them on a fine performance, and said:

ENTERING NEW ERA

"Don't let anyone tell you the days of adventure are over. We are entering a new era and there are wonderful things ahead of you."

"I cannot see just what the future will bring but I am confident you will have an adventurous and interesting life at sea."

Mr. Pearkes said Canada's navy is now an anti-submarine navy. It must know what is going on under the sea and have surface ships capable of dealing with an underwater enemy as well as aircraft operating with all services.

"Good luck to you all," he said.

BELGIAN VISITORS

Mr. Pearkes occupied the reviewing stand with Rear Admiral H. S. Rayner, Flag Officer Pacific Command, and Capt. D. W. Groos, commanding officer, HMCS Venture.

Seated nearby were Belgian

Defence Minister Arthur Gilson and Mrs. Gilson; Belgian Ambassador Jacques de Thier and Mrs. Thier; Commodore L. J. J. Robins, chief of naval staff, Belgian Navy; and Mrs. Robins and other members of the Belgian delegation to Canada.

Mr. Pearkes recalled that earlier in the day the Canadian warship HMCS Winnipeg had been formally handed over to the Belgian Navy, under the NATO assistance plan, and had been renamed the Dufour.

"On this splendid occasion it is appropriate that three of

Helpless Wife Saw Him Killed

(See Page 3)

ROSEBURG, Ore. (AP)—Mrs. Dennis Tandy, a young housewife, told today how her 19-year-old husband died in a disastrous explosion which killed at least 10 others and wrecked a large area of Roseburg's business district.

Mrs. Tandy said her husband was the first to discover a fire in trash cans outside the Gerretsen Building Supply Company shortly after midnight Friday.

They were on their way home from a visit with Mrs. Tandy's mother. Tandy stopped the car and got out to put out the fire, telling his wife to call the fire department.

She drove to a nearby all-night filling station to turn in the alarm and drove back to help her husband.

"I drove around the block, past the building. The last time I saw my husband he had an axe in his hand and was trying to break into a truck, apparently in an attempt to move it."

She then drove to a nearby parking lot. As she turned to look back, the six tons of explosion in another truck blew up with a roar.

Power lines fell around her and sparks flew for several minutes. After the wires stopped sparking, she leaped out of the car and ran to some police who had driven up.

She shouted over the roar that her husband was in the fire. Police said they had to

Fish Nets Out Again Sunday

British Columbia's 5,000 salmon net fishermen are returning to the fishing grounds today after a two-week strike and 4,000 other workers in the industry will return to work as soon as they are called.

The United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union (Ind.) announced the return to work late Friday night, only a few weeks before the fishing season is due to pass its peak.

Members of the union and the Native Brotherhood of B.C., representing Indian fishermen, voted overwhelmingly in favor of accepting a final wage-price offer by the Fisheries Association of B.C.

Homer Stevens, secretary of the UFAWU, said salmon fishermen can leave for the grounds anytime although they may not fish until 6 p.m. Sunday. Shoreworkers in cannerys and tendermen—the workers who shuttle the fish from the boats to the plants ashore—can go back to work as soon as they are called.

FINAL EFFORT

Mr. Stevens said the fishermen voted 84.9 per cent in favor of the settlement, based on a two-year contract which gives them minimum prices slightly higher than those paid last year.

The strike began July 25 when the fishermen went on strike for higher prices. The tendermen and shoreworkers followed four days later in support of demands for higher wages.

COLOR BAR BOYCOTT THREAT

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—One of the top segregationist leaders today threatened a "buyer's strike" against downtown merchants if high school integration comes as scheduled Wednesday.

"If one Negro even attempts to attend a white high school," said Amin Guthridge, "we are calling on the people of every school district in Arkansas to stage a buyer's strike against Little Rock Main Street merchants, and against every firm that employs even one Negro."

Guthridge, lawyer for the segregationist Capital Citizens Council, also said his organization planned other actions in connection with integration, but couldn't disclose them.

Guthridge charged the merchants of Main Street and Little Rock Negroes "are working as a team to make the parents of Little Rock submit to integration regardless of their own or their children's feelings."

100 Flee Deadly Gas

IOWA PARK, Tex. (CP)—More than 100 persons were forced to evacuate a 15-block area during the night when deadly anhydrous ammonia fumes killed the area.

They returned to their homes today after workmen drained a leaking 6,000-gallon tank.

Laos Invasion Feared As Red Troops Mass

VIENTIANE, Laos (Reuters)—The Laotian Army today reported a "massive concentration" of Communist North Vietnamese troops along the mountainous Laos-North Viet Nam border.

Jungle war broke out a week ago between Laotian troops and pro-Communist guerrillas in the northern provinces of this Indo-Chinese kingdom.

A statement issued by army headquarters said the report of massive concentration was received from a Laotian commander in the troubled northern province of Sam Neua.

The agreement, ending the war between the French and Communist guerrillas, provided for division of Viet Nam into Communist north and pro-Western south and truce supervision for neighboring Laos and Cambodia.

The statement added that the Communists were believed preparing a big offensive to regain control of the province, formerly controlled by the pro-Communist Laotian Patriotic Party.

It added that the purpose of the Communist move was to force the return of the international commission established under the Indochina Ceasefire Agreement signed in Geneva in 1954.

The agreement, ending the war between the French and Communist guerrillas, provided for division of Viet Nam into Communist north and pro-Western south and truce supervision for neighboring Laos and Cambodia.

The true supervisory commission—Canada, India and Poland—suspended its operations a year ago. Laos says that if the commission returns it will lead to Communist subversion in the country.

Loyal Laotian forces have reported seven officers and 300 men killed defending the area.

One Up in the Limousine

THE last few days spent by this column have been spent (if not over-spent) in constant travel. There ought to be a law, but there isn't, so instead gentle readers are going to have to put up with the by-products of certain observations made by the piercing eye of this far-ranging feature.

Public conveyances, whether in reason, afford many an occasion for the giving forth of philosophical profundities by those inclined to the task. The habits and attitudes of people being driven or whisked or whirled about in the mass are a fruitful field for the social scientist (whatever he is). Why shouldn't I get into the act? Let us start with the humble ups and downs of everyday life.

Gentle readers (and I suppose there are a few) who are in the habit of going up and down in elevators will have noticed that strange stiffening silence which descends upon the occupants when the door clangs shut on them. Conversations die away; everyone clamps his teeth and stares grimly at the ceiling, as if searching for a new planet. I have no idea why this happens, but it does. In North America, that is.

Professor Laudenboemer, in his interesting monograph, "Elevatormuseumus," published in Leipzig in 1957, puts it down to the imminent escape of certain suppressed desires often sublimated in dreams about flying.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Famous Gout Sufferers

LONDON—Good news for those who suffer from gout. It might well be that it is an indication that you're a very bright person.

Sir Osbert Sitwell, a sufferer himself, has drawn up an imposing list of great brains who were inflicted with gout. He says: "Kuba Khan and Talyrand, William Pitt, and the Bacons, father and son, Wesley and Darwin, Gibbon and Fielding, Milton and Newton, and many another name as famous help to compose the roll of honor of this martyred but happy band."

And to back up the argument he quotes the late Dr. Havelock Ellis: "It occurs so often in men of such pre-eminent intellectual ability that it is impossible not to regard it as having a real association with such ability."

Does that ease the pain a little?

Reyburn

The passing of Cecil B. de Mille brought forth in our local pub, where they always discuss these things, a cliché which is one of the best I've heard and a story about him which I knew but which well stands the test of retelling.

Cliché? That's a popular form of poem in this country—a four-line humorous verse based on the name of a person. The De Mille one:

Cecil B. De Mille,
Much against his will,
Was persuaded to leave Moses
Out of the Wars of the Roses.

The anecdote concerned his shooting the crossing of the Red Sea sequence. Everything was lined up ready—the thousands of extras and all their paraphernalia, the elaborate mechanism for creating the illusion, the millions of gallons of water, etc., etc.

* * *

The shooting of this scene alone would cost $100,000, so De Mille had three cameras set up, to make sure that they got it on celluloid and all that money didn't go down the drain.

He called "Action!" The waters parted, the extras streamed over in their thousands—the whole thing a wonderful spectacle.

"Okay?" he called out to No. 1 camera crew when it was all over. Sorry, they said dejectedly, their camera had gone on the retelling.

De Mille checked with camera No. 2. They were unhappy also. The film had jammed just as they got started and they hadn't been able to get the camera working again.

In desperation, De Mille bellowed to the crew of the remaining camera: "Okay?" Came the reply: "Ready when you are, Mr. De Mille."
